

Cong Rejects Saigon Plan, Bids U.S. Talk With the NLF

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong's National Liberation Front today denounced the Saigon government's offer of private peace talks as "a maneuver of the Nixon administration aimed at covering up its policy of intensifying the war of aggression in South Vietnam."

In what appeared to be an outright rejection, the NLF's "foreign minister," Tran Buu Kiem, told the 10th weekly session of the Paris negotiations that the offer of secret contacts made by South Vietnam was on the orders of the United States and exposed American "obduracy and hypocrisy."

If the United States "really wants to settle the Vietnam problem, it must hold direct talks with the NLF," Kiem said. The United States has refused to talk directly with the Front as a separate political entity.

Kiem said President Nguyen Van Thieu offered to hold private discussions to "cope with public opinion in the United States and throughout the world, which indignantly condemns the United States and for its intensification of the war and for hindering progress at the Paris conference."

While this apparent rejection of the offer might be a screen to keep secret contacts secret, it seemed certain to set back the hopes aroused in recent days by the statements in Saigon and Washington.

The United States and South Vietnam did not specifically mention the bids for secret talks at the conference.

Instead, U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the other side, "The responsibility for aggression against South Vietnam lies in Hanoi." He claimed that two thirds of all combat forces facing the Americans and South Vietnamese are North Vietnamese.

Lodge said 85 per cent of the other side's combat forces in the five northern provinces of South Vietnam are North Vietnamese, and that northerners make up more than 80 per cent of such combat forces in the Saigon region.

Ready Any Time

Lodge said this was why the Americans propose mutual withdrawal of all external forces from South Vietnam. He added that the United States remains ready to discuss these proposals "at any time." Up to now the Americans have been unable to get North Vietnam to admit publicly that it has any troops in the South.

South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam urged the other side to "start immediately serious and correct discussions." He did not specify secret discussions. He repeatedly re-stated his government's position that the war is caused solely by aggression from the North.

Lam warned that the South Vietnamese "will not accept any settlement whose result is to place South Vietnam under Communist domination against the wishes of the majority of the population."

Administration leaders see a long, frustrating path to peace and fear impatience can weaken the U. S. bargaining power.

Meanwhile, on the warfront, American battlefield deaths in Vietnam dropped 25 per cent last week to the lowest weekly toll of the Viet Cong spring offensive, the U.S. Command announced today. But the 266 Americans killed in action pushed the total for the war to within 300 of total combat fatalities in the Korean war.

33,329 U. S. Dead

The 266 dead—85 less than the week before—brought the total American combat dead for the eight-year-old war to 33,329. The total in the three-year Korean War was 33,629.

The U.S. Command also announced that 1,362 Americans were wounded in action last week, 61 more than the previous week. This brought the total American wounded reported in the war to 209,045.

In the first four weeks since the Viet Cong launched their spring offensive Feb. 23, 1,406 Americans have been killed. The heaviest toll was during the first week of the offensive, when 453 U.S. troops were killed.

A U.S. spokesman said apparently part of the reason for the reduction in the number of American deaths last week was that the enemy was not following up his nightly rocket and mortar attacks on U.S. bases with infantry assaults as frequently as he did earlier in the offensive. He said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops also were breaking off contact more quickly when engaged by sweeping American forces.

While U.S. casualties dropped last week, those of the South Vietnamese forces went up slightly and considerably exceeded the American total. The government said 337 of its soldiers were killed and 1,537 were wounded, compared with 325 killed and 1,156 wounded the week before.

The offensive continued to prove costly for the enemy, although his casualties also were considerably reduced. The allied commands reported 3,873 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed last week, compared to a revised total of 4,336 the week before.

By U.S. count, the enemy has lost 19,101 troops in the first four weeks of his offensive. South Vietnamese dead in that period total 1,442. With the 1,406 Americans killed, the allied total is 2,848 dead, or a kill ratio of about seven to one in favor of the South Vietnamese and Americans.

On the battlefield, meanwhile, 100 South Vietnamese soldiers made it to safety today after a two-day battle 30 miles north of Saigon. But 50 were still missing and 22 were dead.

Hanoi Force Battered

An estimated 2,000 North Vietnamese regulars badly battered the strike force battalion of about 600 men before helicopters put down reinforcing troops. After the reinforcements landed, the survivors began making their way into the landing zone.

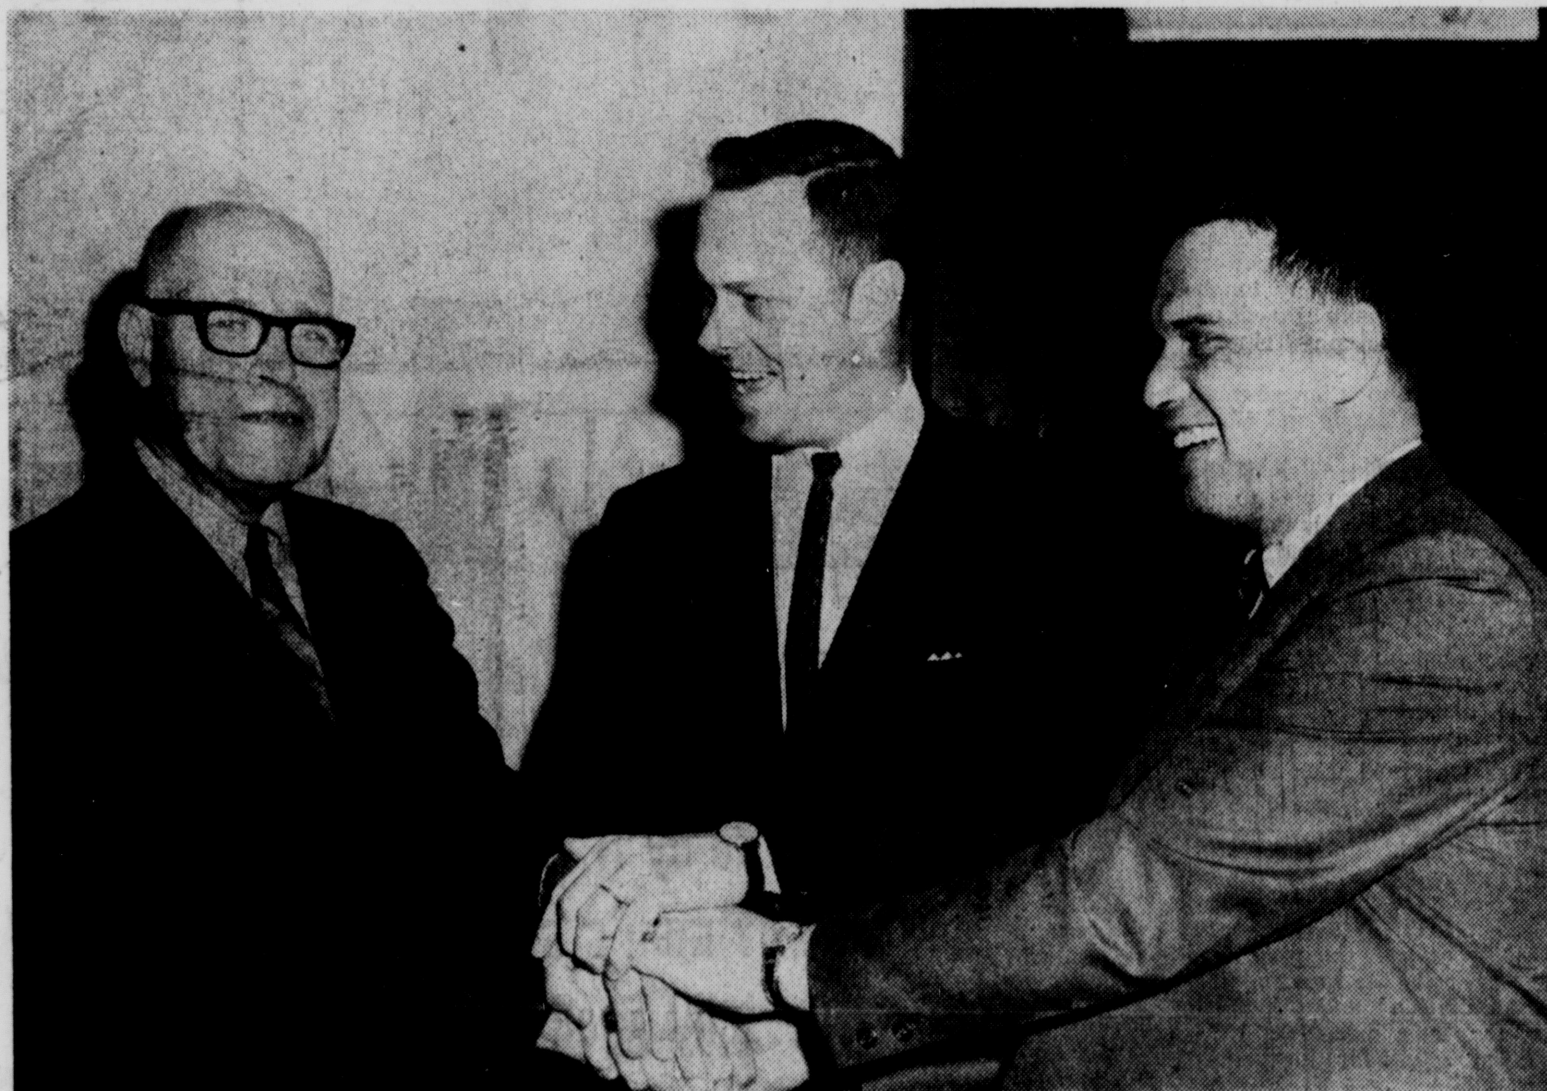

A UPI dispatch today reported four U.S. helicopters, two of them on missions to evacuate wounded GIs from the battlefield, were shot down today by Communist ground fire. Eight Americans died. One of the copters was clearly marked with a red cross, the U.S. Command reported.

In addition to the 22 dead and 50 missing, more than 100 of the battalion and several American Green Beret advisers were wounded.

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON The Democrats opened the defense of their Kingston stronghold Wednesday night with the nomination of a full slate of candidates led by Francis R. Koenig for mayor, T. Robert Gallo for alderman-at-large and Hubert A. Richter for city judge.

The Democrats, in marked contrast to the widely split City Republican party, presented a united front at their unofficial party convention Wednesday night at the Ulster County Courthouse, also the scene of the GOP convention Monday night.

City Chairman Thomas R. Lyle welcomed the delegates and then quickly got down to the business of the convention, nomination of candidates. The orderly transition of power began as Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan strode to the podium amid a standing, thunderous ovation, to nominate his former running mate, Francis R. Koenig, to succeed him in office.

Garraghan's nominating speech was as follows: "According to the city charter this is the year to nominate city candidates."

"A political party's responsibility is to nominate their best. Today very few people are interested in a political party. They vote for the person best qualified."

"I came here to nominate the next mayor of Kingston. Health is my only reason for not being a candidate. I want to thank the Democratic party and the Conservative party for their nominations in 1965 and 1967. Most of all I want to thank the voters for their confidence."

Ulster County Democrats postponed their unofficial nominating convention until Tuesday, April 15. Story Page 2.

"I am stepping down but not out of public service as the needs of our people are great. There is work to do, especially with our children, who are our most important commodity."

"I hope I can complete most of my programs. Those unfinished will be carried out by the most experienced young man in our city. A graduate of Kingston High School, Siena College and a leading businessman in the community, but most of all one that knows our city."

At that point Garraghan departed from his prepared statement and said, "A man (Koenig) whose car is registered in Ulster County, not Dutchess County." This was an apparent reference to Republican mayoral nominee James J. Tyrrell, a native of Poughkeepsie, whose automobile is registered in Dutchess County although he is now a resident of Kingston.

Garraghan continued his prepared remarks concerning Koenig by saying, "He was secretary for Mayor Ed Radel, a member of the Common Council for four years where he served as chairman of the Finance, Ways and Means Committee, served as alderman-at-large during my first two years in office, decided to step aside for business reasons and now has volunteered to accept the responsibility as chief executive."

"You all know him and every citizen will be proud of our next mayor whom I give my unqualified support, Frank Koenig."

Koenig's nomination was seconded by Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward), John Heitzman (D-First Ward), Florence S. Ludlow (D-Fourth Ward), Peter Mancuso (D-Tenth Ward) and by Paul Mills, Stan Petro Jr., city treasurer; Joseph Epstein, former Sixth Ward alderman, and Donald Gregory, former 13th Ward supervisor. He was escorted to the podium by Garraghan, Quick and Heitzman.

Koenig, who recently had a serious operation on his back told those gathered, "I was advised that I would have to start walking quite a bit and work up to walking a mile a day. Well, in just ten short days, I'm not only walking a mile a day, but thanks to the Democratic party, I'm already running, not a mile but throughout the entire city."

Later, in his address, Koenig declared, "I will do my utmost if elected, to carry out the fiscal policies of Mayor Garraghan; policies which could be emulated by other municipalities throughout the state and country. My business experience and my governmental experience qualify me to accept this responsible post."

Koenig concluded, "I am ready. I am willing. And I am able to serve my city and with the help of God and the hard work of all present here this evening we will be victorious in November."

Lawrence Woerner, the party's deputy chairman, placed the name of Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo in nomination for a second term. That nomination was seconded by Petro and then Garraghan.

Garraghan, speaking of Gallo, said, "Bobby and I have had our differences but I've had differences with every alderman. One thing about the Democrats. There are no bosses. Bobby Gallo deserves to be reelected as alderman-at-large."

Gallo was escorted to the podium by Garraghan, Petro and Quick. Gallo termed Garraghan "one of the finest and sincerest mayors in the history of Kingston." He also said, "Leaders have differences. It's easy to be a follower but it's tough to be a leader." Then Gallo asked city residents to support Garraghan for "any office he might seek in the future."

Judge Richter was nominated for reelection by former City Judge Aaron E. Klein, who praised him for his "understanding of youth and even-handed justice." The seconding speech was forwarded by Special City Judge George A. Beck, who is a hospital patient. Beck's speech was read by Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, county chairman.

The party also nominated the slate of 12 incumbents in the Common Council along with Daniel Cronan, who will run in the Second Ward.

Nominees included John Heitzman (First Ward), Cronan, Joseph Conlin (Third Ward), Florence Ludlow (Fourth Ward), John Finch (Fifth Ward), Donald Quick (Sixth Ward), Michael Perry (Seventh Ward), Emilio Primo (Eighth Ward), Fred Harder (Ninth Ward), Clifford Sinsabaugh (Tenth Ward), Edward Norton (11th Ward), Peter Mancuso (12th Ward) and James Madden (13th Ward).

The final order of business was the naming of a committee on vacancies consisting of Lyle, Gorman, Woerner and Mrs. Rose Hogan, vice chairman of the county committee.

U.N. and Mideast -- the Exchanges

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Jordan set up a meeting of the U.N. Security Council today so it could ask for action to stop Israeli air raids on its territory.

Jordanian Ambassador Muhammad H. El-Farra requested the council meeting after Israeli planes raided around the town of Salt Wednesday. Jordan said 18 civilians were killed and 25 wounded.

El-Farra's letter to council President Karoly Csatorday of Hungary asked that the council adopt more adequate and effective measures to check Israeli acts of aggression.

Israel in announcing the raid said its planes attacked an Arab guerrilla base near Salt from which Israel had been attacked. It was expected to counter Jordan's demand with a demand that the council do something to halt Arab attacks on Israel.

No resolution censuring the Arabs stands a chance of council approval because of the Soviet veto. Israel therefore is certain to continue its reprisals for attacks by the Arab commandos, no matter what action the council takes.

The UPI said today that Arab gunners hit Israeli settlements with rockets today. Israeli officials said, and Arab guerrillas vowed to attack Israeli ships and commercial planes. Diplomats pressed their peace initiative.

"We will escalate our activities against the enemy and warn in particular those tourists who use enemy airlines and ships that from now on both naval vessels and planes will be objects of our attack," the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, a commando organization, warned in Amman, Jordan.

The front claimed credit for attacks on Israeli airliners in Athens and Zurich in the last four months. It issued the threat shortly after Jordanian authorities blamed Israel for killing 18 civilians and wounding 25 in an air raid on Es-Salt Wednesday.

Today's rocket assault on Israeli settlements near Beisan and Bet Zera, and on a military patrol near Kfar-Ruppin caused no casualties, military sources said in Jerusalem. They said Israeli forces returned the fire.

Rep. Fish's Wife Killed In Crash Near Family Home

By WALTER S. CLARK

MILLBROOK

Dutchess County Medical Examiner Dr. Chester H. Golding Wednesday night returned a verdict of accidental death after a fatal two-car collision had claimed the life of Mrs. Julia Fish, 41-year-old wife of Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. of this Town of Washington village.

Dr. Golding said Mrs. Fish died of a broken neck. She was pronounced dead at the scene of the crash which occurred at 10:45 p. m. on Route 82 at the junction of Welwyn Road where the Fish family resides.

Charles Wing, 43, also of Millbrook, operator of the second car involved in the tragic mishap, sustained a broken nose and bruises. He was taken to St. Francis' Hospital in Poughkeepsie for treatment and later released.

State Police officials from Troop K investigated the accident with Dr. Golding and said later that no criminal action would be taken.

Identification of the victim of the mishap and details of the accident were withheld until after 8 a. m. today at the request of Congressman Fish pending the notification of his four children of the untimely death of their mother.

Alone in Car According to an investigation report filed by State Troopers Dennis Feerick and Robert Eklund of the South Millbrook station, Mrs. Fish was traveling south on Route 82 and Wing was heading in the opposite direction at the time of the impact. Mrs. Fish was alone in the family car.

Troopers said the Congressman's wife was attempting a left turn from Route 82 into Welwyn Road not far from the Fish residence, when her car for some unexplained reason crossed into the opposite traffic lane on the country road.

Troopers reported that investigation disclosed that Wing saw the oncoming car and he swerved to the right in a futile attempt to avoid a head-on collision. His car went off the right shoulder of the road and crashed into guard rails seconds before the two vehicles collided on the shoulder.

Ejected From Car

Mrs. Fish was ejected from her car by the force of the impact. Troopers said she was not using the seat belt. An official said if she had been wearing the belt she might have avoided serious injuries.

The body was removed to the Allen Funeral Home on Franklin Avenue in this village.

Mrs. Fish was the former Julia MacKenzie of Montreal. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis A. MacKenzie, and a graduate of the Montreal General Hospital School of Nursing. In this community, Mrs. Fish was active in numerous area and civic affairs and she campaigned with her husband when he ran for Congress last year in the 28th District, which comprises Ulster, Dutchess, Greene, Columbia and Schoharie counties.

She and Fish were married in Montreal in 1951 and had four children, Hamilton III, 17, Nicholas, 10, Peter, 9, and Alexa, 15.

Fish is the fifth generation of his family to serve in Congress.

State to Investigate Death of Prisoner

By SHANE CROSBY

KINGSTON—Investigators from the State Department of Correction are expected to arrive here by the end of this week to begin their probe into Tuesday's apparent suicide of a prisoner in the Kingston Police section of the Ulster County Jail.

Richard E. Woodward, secretary to State Commissioner of Correction Paul McGinnis, told The Freeman today that his office will investigate police methods of prisoner treatment to insure that state procedures are followed.

Meanwhile, Ulster County Coroner William Keyser issued a ruling in the death of the prisoner, William Bailey, found dangling from a belt in his cell less than two hours after being jailed along with his brother for public intoxication.

Keyser ruled the death as asphyxiation "due to strangulation," but did not rule it a suicide. The coroner had been called to the Wall Street jail moments after city police discovered Bailey and attempted to revive the man.

The Albany official said that "from all apparent indications," foul play was not involved, but said procedures "can't be overlooked" as to searching and periodic checks by police.

Two points that will be investigated have to do with the length of time between police checks of cells and the presence of weapons in the cell. Woodward said authorities are required to check cells every half hour and should "take everything away from the prisoners that could apparently be used as suicide weapons."

The state investigation will be conducted in cooperation with county and local probes, said Woodward, adding that his report would be offered to other investigators and would then be presented to the Correction Commission at a hearing.

The secretary said any results of the state probe would be reserved should other authorities indicate that they would make any charges in the case in an effort to headoff any possible conflict with local investigations.

Kingston Police Chief Francis Fagan said Wednesday that an investigation was being carried out by his office into the death. Detective Lt. Lemuel Howard said anyone connected with the dead man while in police hands would be questioned. Howard said Chief Fagan would lead the police probe and state investigators will work with local authorities.

A report made by the coroner shortly after the death indicated that city police made hourly checks on prisoners in the four-cell basement "bullpen" and said the last such check on Bailey had been made at 6:30 p. m., with a later check by a jail trustee five minutes later. Both checks indicated that everything was normal in the Bailey cell, he reported. The man was found hanging within 10 minutes of the trustee's check.

Chief Fagan indicated that no special precautions are made in the public intoxication cases and said items such as a man's belt are allowed to be retained by the prisoner.

DEMONSTRATION AT CAPITOL—A horse-drawn cart converted into a "covered wagon" was used in a demonstration at the Capitol Thursday by mobile home owners to represent the first mobile home used by this country's early settlers. The Columbia County residents are in Albany to protest against towns that allow mobile homes only in trailer parks rather than on lots like houses. Here two "pioneers" look out the back of their covered wagon. They are Patricia Bruce, 2, and her brother Raymond, 5. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. George Bruce, Stuyvesant, N. Y. Valley Celebrates Annual Apple Day

WASHINGTON—Tuesday was Hudson Valley apple day in Washington as Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. joined with area apple growers to bring one of the major products of the Hudson Valley to the attention of the nation's lawmakers.

Highlighting the day was a presentation of apples to members and guests in the House dining room by the apple queen, Miss Susan Bennett, 17, of Columbia County; her mother and Edward Buckley, agricultural agent for Columbia County.

Apples on Each Table
Apples were set on each table with crates of apples sent to President Nixon, Vice-President Agnew, the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the chairman and ranking minority members of both the House Agriculture and House Education and Labor Committees.

The luncheon, given by Congressman Fish, was attended by William Gifford, assistant secretary of labor; Senators Jacob K. Javits and Charles Goodell; Undersecretary of Agriculture G. V. Hansen; John Datt of the American Farm Bureau; and Congressman Martin McKnealley of Orange County.

Attending from the 28th Congressional District were Robert Greig of Red Hook, president of the New York State Farm Bureau; Edward Buckley, Columbia County agricultural agent; Ben Bartolotta, also of Columbia County and who was instrumental in originating the apple day presentation four years ago with Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick; Walter S. Schreiber, chairman of the Dutchess County Apple Co-op; Richard Albert, Columbia County Agway; as well as, George Reid, Henry Hart and Sidney Meade, all Dutchess County apple growers.

Also attending were Charles Andola, Mid-Hudson Co-op; Frank Ligotino, Joseph Russo, Michael Lembo, Antelo Fiscella and Nicholas Appuzzo, all of Ulster County; Anthony Merello; William Palmer, Ulster County agricultural agent; Rod Dressell; Ted Wright; "Wink" Hart, chairman of the Mid-Ulster Apple Co-op; and Philip Hurd.

Other Ulster County growers attending the apple day luncheon were: Anthony Pneziozzi, Kurt Rohrs, Joseph Trippani and Lee Vinke.

In addition to Congressman Fish, Senators Javits and Goodell addressed the meeting. The two-pronged drive of the apple day promotion was to acquaint Washington lawmakers with apple products and to acquaint representatives of the Hudson Valley growers with officials in the Labor and Agriculture Departments.

Discussion Held
A wide ranging discussion of problems peculiar to apple growers was held with officials at the luncheon.

First started by Congressman Resnick, the highly successful and popular apple day promotion is being carried on by Congressman Fish. In a short talk to the growers, Congressman Fish praised the group for their initiative and thanked them for their wonderful help in getting set-up for this year's affair.

County Dems to Try Again on April 15

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON—An incomplete list of Democratic candidates on the county level forced a postponement of Tuesday night's unofficial Democratic convention to Tuesday, April 15 at 8 p. m.

Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, county chairman, recessed the convention saying that "within the next two weeks, hopefully the committeemen will come back with the best candidates in a qualified manner as in the past two years."

It was expected that a county clerk candidate as well as county legislator contenders would be named at last night's meeting.

Eight candidates for city representatives on the county legislature were nominated during the city Democratic convention which followed the recessed county confab.

Nominated were incumbents Orrie Riehl and William Edelmuth, Dr. Gorman, Raymond (Abel) Garrahan, James Gilpatrick, Thomas Lyle, William Davis and Andrew Gilday.

The only announced candidates for the nomination for county legislative posts are John Bonilla of Woodstock who seeks the District 12 slot and two candidates for five legislative posts in the Second District.

Town of Ulster Democratic chairman Walter Houle said last night that candidates would be five incumbent Democratic County Librarian, Richard Rosichan and Joseph Polcano, an IBM accountant and former secretary of the Kingston Democratic Club.

Saying the Democratic Party is at a crossroads in Ulster County, Dr. Gorman lauded the quality candidates on the county level, whom he called "quality candidates with their own particular acumen and added that while the party is weak numerically it is strong in attributes."

Albany GOPers Confident

Budget Impasse Nears Showdown

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —The state budget impasse inched toward a showdown in the legislature today, with Republican leaders exuding confidence they could produce the votes to pass Gov. Rockefeller's $6.4-billion fiscal program.

The United Press International, meanwhile, reported at mid-morning today that a break in the legislative deadlock over the budget was reported near.

Perry B. Duryea Jr., speaker of the Assembly, where the budget problem has been most sensitive, called his GOP majority to a closed conference to present the leaders' trimmed version of the Rockefeller spending plan.

Sources close to Duryea said he expected to emerge with the 76 votes needed to pass the budget, although he was still struggling to overcome opposition to the proposed sales tax increase.

Duryea himself flatly predicted that "we'll have a budget by April 1" — the start of the state's new fiscal year.

In the Senate, Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges scheduled a similar confrontation with his Republican colleagues, and the word was that Brydges would produce at least 31 votes for the tax and spending program. He needed 29 to insure Senate passage.

"We'll pass a budget by March 31," said Brydges, his prediction improving on Duryea's by a day.

Legislative aides said they hoped to bring the budget to a vote on Saturday or—at the latest—Monday.

In both houses, the Democratic minorities were lined up solidly against Rockefeller's proposal to balance the budget by raising the state's sales tax from two to three cents on the dollar.

But Duryea's problem was more acute because of his dangerously thin 78-72 working majority. He could afford to lose only two votes among the handful of conservative-minded GOP assemblymen balking at the tax increase.

Brydges has a more comfortable 33-24 majority, leaving him four votes to spare.

The big question mark was posed by the six-member Republican bloc from the Syracuse area—the two senators and four assemblymen representing Onondaga and Madison counties. They were pressing for budget economies large enough to forestall the sales-tax increase, which is expected to produce $340 million in additional revenue.

Sen. John H. Hughes and Assemblyman John H. Terry, both from Syracuse, said they still were not satisfied that the budget had been trimmed enough.

While Brydges could afford to spare the two senators, Duryea's plans were jeopardized by the four assemblymen. He hoped to swing them into line at the conference.

Uprising Quelled

A similar uprising, by the 13-member GOP delegation from Nassau County, was quelled Wednesday when the leaders came up with a school-aid plan that placated the lawmakers.

The Nassau men had served notice that they would not vote for any budget that cut state aid to their school districts.

Rockefeller had recommended a five per cent cutback from the normally higher levels of spending in his new budget, including school aid. GOP leaders had tried to substitute specific changes in the school-aid formula, but the Nassau group complained some districts still would be hit too hard.

After several days of haggling, Duryea and Brydges produced a "save-harmless" billing assuring that no district would receive less aid in the new fiscal year than it now draws.

"This takes care of us—we're satisfied," said Assemblyman Joseph Margiotta, the Nassau GOP chairman who acts as spokesman for the delegation.

It was understood that the concession would cost $45 million, reducing the anticipated budget economy by that amount.

While the leaders maneuvered behind the scenes to settle the budget question, the Senate and Assembly slogged through crowded calendars of largely routine legislation. There was lively action in both houses, however.

In the Assembly, Republicans won passage of a bill that would prohibit busing school children out of their neighborhoods to promote racial integration of the public schools. The Senate was waiting to concur, but a Rockefeller veto was in prospect.

The Senate gave its approval to a bill that would give the New York City police commissioner wide discretion in assigning extra police during high-crime-rate hours. Assembly passage was virtually insured, as was Rockefeller's signature.

Highland Meets
On School Issues

A public informational meeting on two propositions by the Highland Central School Board of Education to construct an elementary school for the district has been scheduled for tonight at the District High School at 8 p. m.

Voters of the school district will answer the question of which of two sites should be used for the elementary school Monday in balloting to select a $2,535,000 or a $2,245,000 bond referendum.

The Highland Board of Education decided to hold a two-proposition vote after a bond referendum in December was defeated because of what the board considered a question on locations.

Both sites are located within one and a half miles of the district's present elementary school. The first site, called Decker, and priced at the $2.5 million figure, is 11 acres in size and is less than one mile from the present school. The second site, called the Sandy Site, is 59-acres in size and is 1.3 miles from the school.

Land development of the location for the new school recently caused the Highland Chamber of Commerce to prefer the selection of the Decker Site, saying some $230,000 could be cut from the total cost of the project.

Woodstock's Sign Ordinance To Get Another Challenge

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK Another challenge to Woodstock's sign ordinance will come tonight at a public hearing in Town Hall. The hearing is set for 8 p.m.; will involve an application by the Atlantic Richfield Company, Atlantic Division, for a variance from local sign regulations, which are part of the Woodstock Zoning Ordinance.

Atlantic seeks permission to install a free standing sign, 60 feet from the face of the gasoline service station operated in its name by Lewis Wilson on Mill Hill Road in the art colony. The present ordinance makes signs of this type and location illegal.

There is no reason to believe Atlantic will receive approval for a variance. Humble Oil and Refining Company sought a variance on March 13 for a pole identification sign at its Esso service station, operated by Kenneth Reynolds and located only several doors down the main street from the Atlantic building. That appeal was turned down by the Zoning Board of Appeals, as was an earlier request involving a business sign at the realtor office of A. Floyd Simmons on Tinker Street.

Will Not Fight

Although Humble Oil representative Barnett Ross, a traffic and zoning engineer from the metropolitan area, threatened at the March 13 hearing to take the firm's case "all the way to the Supreme Court," if the Appeals Board denied its application, the national company evidently has no intention of now doing so.

Woodstock Planning Board chairman Benjamin L. Webster released a letter this week from Humble's New York marketing manager, Paul Remick Jr., written shortly after the hearing. Remick said his company "is very concerned about its local image and does everything in its power to present a neat, clean appearance to the motoring public."

He said the company's wish to keep its sign in Woodstock is based upon "marketing conditions in the industry" and a belief that Humble "should have the right to do business as we see fit" unless such action "is completely obnoxious to the local community."

The clincher, however, was Remick's statement: "We are sure that the final decision rendered by your local zoning authorities will reflect the attitude of Woodstock and will be abided by."

Acceding to Wishes

Since the decision of the Zoning Board of Appeals in the Humble case was a denial of its request for a variance, Remick is saying in effect that Humble will accede to the wishes of Woodstock as shown in the board's decision.

It would seem academic that since Humble's case was considered the test case by zoning agencies in the township—and the test has apparently been met—Atlantic and other oil companies will find it fruitless to challenge the legality of the ordinance.

One major oil company, unlike Humble and Atlantic, chose not to make an issue of the matter at all. Peper's Garage, also on Mill Hill Road, was the first business to remove its sign (a Chevron advertisement) when the grace period provided by the ordinance ended in January. Other businesses, including Grand Union, A&P, the Woodstock Liquor Store, Allen's Electric, and the Catskill Book Shop also brought their signs into conformance immediately, as did the Woodstock Library.

Planning Board head Webster has noted on numerous occasions that the town's sign ordinance is not intended as a "hardship" on merchants and businesses, but is an effort to protect Woodstock's "natural charm and beauty" from the "large flamboyantly lighted signs" that have often created "strips" in other towns. The ordinance does not prohibit signs; simply regulates size, number, placement and type of lighting used.

First Meeting Held

'Crash Program' for Review Board

WOODSTOCK Woodstock's new Zoning Review Board is off on what Town Supervisor Milton Houst calls a "crash program" to review all facets of the commercial advertising sign portion of the art colony's zoning ordinance. Houst announced this week that the new board held its first meeting Friday night.

Possible changes in sign regulations were discussed at that session, as well as the possibility of having a Design Advisory Board in the town to offer suggestions to those businesses planning new signs, buildings or additions to buildings.

In the wake of some criticism over the seven persons named by Houst to the Review Board, the Woodstock supervisor has also announced the addition of a new member to that board since his original appointments were made March 18. She is Mrs. Nancy Lyon, a present member of the local Planning Board and a Republican.

Houst had been criticized by Democrat Town Justice Edgar

C. Leacycraft and Democratic town chairman John Bonilla for his failure to appoint a bipartisan review board. Both men attacked the board for its total Republican makeup; also charged it was wholly representative of "anti-zoning elements" in the town. In addition, Bonilla saw a "conflict of interest" in the appointment of "representatives of real estate interests" on the board, and in the naming of Hanno D. Schrader, who is also a member of the town's Zoning Board of Appeals. He said this placed Schrader in the position of being allowed to "serve as judge and legislator in the same case."

Houst defended the board as "representative of both sides of the pole," and said those serving had "opposing opinions" which vary from "discarding the entire sign ordinance to finding little or no fault with the regulations as they stand."

In announcing the appointment of Mrs. Nancy Lyon and the first meeting of the board, however, he insisted: "There is no one on the Review Board who has ever been, or is now, against Woodstock maintaining a Zoning Ordinance." The supervisor added: "They do believe, however, that some changes are in order and the periodic reviewing of the entire ordinance should be a standard procedure."

Defending his latest appointment, and the earlier designation of Schrader, he said they "gave representation on the Review Board to the local Planning Board and the Zoning Board of Appeals," a fact he feels is essential. "Mrs. Lyon and Schrader will lend representation from their groups, and since I will serve as the Town Board representative, all vitally involved agencies will be represented," said Houst.

Houst was elected to act as chairman of the Review Board at its first meeting. The group also voted to obtain the services of someone with ample extra time to serve as secretary, a job that will involve considerable additional work. The selection of a secretary is expected to be made this week.

The review of the sign ordinance will be the first consideration of the group, and the project is expected to be completed as soon as possible, perhaps in a month's time. Members have agreed to meet weekly, on Wednesdays (and more frequently when and if necessary) until the work is completed.

The full review board includes: Kenneth Reynolds, gasoline service station owner; Hanno Schrader, artist and former advertising man; Richard Jeffery, art gallery owner and artist; Warren Huttly, insurance and real estate man; Albert Cashdollar, ex-supervisor and former superintendent of highways in Woodstock; George Benne-yan, retired Look magazine executive; Mrs. Kiki Godwin, newspaper advertising manager; Mrs. Nancy Lyon, wife of a Rotron Manufacturing Company executive; and Supervisor Milton Houst.

At Public Meeting

Will Discuss Red Hook Building

RED HOOK

12 in the Red Hook Central School District.

A public meeting will be held in the Red Hook High School gym at 8 p.m. Apr. 1 to discuss the construction program.

A careful study by the Board of Education, Professional staff, and State Department officials has determined that 36 new classrooms will be needed to house the anticipated students.

Anticipated enrollment for the next five years shows an increase of well over 600 students in grades kindergarten through grades K through 3 in the Mill Road School addition; grades seven through nine at the Linden Avenue School; and grades ten through 12 at the high school.

Many Economics

The concentration of the entire elementary population at the Mill Road site will make possible many economies.

Transportation will be greatly simplified; duplication of personnel can be eliminated to some extent and a more efficient use can be made of administration personnel, special teachers, teacher aids and custodians.

A single kitchen will serve both units, eliminating the need for duplication of effort in that department.

Estimated cost for the Mill Road addition is $2,160,000. "We hope the cost will be even less, however," Russell Keefe, district principal stated.

Locating the entire 7-12 population in the two buildings in the village of Red Hook will make possible the sharing of outdoor physical education facilities and equipment.

And the addition of a fixed seat auditorium to the high school building will provide a learning center for large group instruction and a facility for cultural enrichment for both students and community. The gymnasium is presently used for such gatherings.

Capacity for the proposed auditorium will be 1,000 persons. Estimated cost of the addition is $465,000. It will serve both the Junior and Senior High Schools.

36 Classrooms

The construction on the Mill Road site will be 36 classrooms, a two-station gymnasium, a cafeteria, a library, and administration and health facilities.

Separate bonds will be voted on for the Mill Road and high school proposals.

Following the public meeting next Tuesday, a special district meeting is scheduled for April 15. Voting will take place between 2 p. m. and 9 p. m. at the high school.

Days for personal registration are scheduled at the high school March 29 and April 2 between 2 p. m. and 9 p. m.

All qualified residents who did not register at the annual meeting last June must register to be qualified to vote April 15.

The total annual costs for debt service for the auditorium will be aided by New York State at approximately 64 per cent.

Eighty per cent of the annual costs for debt service for the elementary construction will be aided by New York State at approximately 64 per cent.

The aid percentages will be increased by 25 per cent if incentive aid now available remains in effect. Governor Rockefeller has recommended repeal of incentive aid which is now part of state aid to Red Hook.

Ellenville Cager Sentenced

ELLENVILLE

A 17-year-old former basketball player at Ellenville Central High School, who was indicted by an Ulster County grand jury earlier this week on charges stemming from a burglary, has been sentenced to an indeterminate term of up to four years in another case brought before the local police court.

Also indicted by the grand jury were Gerald Richard Sherman and Bruce Taylor, both 17 on charges of third degree burglary, two counts; criminal trespass in the second degree, two counts; petit larceny, two counts, and criminally possessing a hypodermic instrument.

Sherman, a resident of Wallkill, and Taylor, a resident of Gardiner, were accused of burglarizing a Wallkill residence and a physician's office on March 2.

Another indictment named John Scully, 29, who gave his address as Garden Street, this city. He was accused of burglary in the third degree and criminally trespassing in the second degree. Authorities said the charges stemmed from a burglary investigation at the Kingston Coal and Oil Co. Inc. on Nov. 24, 1968.

Alfred Mandeville, who was indicted jointly with Joseph Wynkoop, also 17, on charges of burglary second degree, grand larceny first degree, and criminal trespass in the first degree, pleaded guilty Tuesday night in police court here to two misdemeanors.

Mandeville's sentence carries a minimum of six months to be served in a state reformatory.

Mandeville was arrested by village police twice last October on five charges—two counts for unlicensed driving, one each for resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and unregistered motor vehicle operation. With consent of the district attorney's office, the youth pleaded guilty to resisting arrest and driving without a license.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 27, 1969

College Education

In his column appearing in this issue, David Lawrence discusses the broad problems facing colleges and questions whether a college education is worthwhile for everybody, irrespective of his readiness and even desire to find a good job and get started earlier in life than some of the members of the same age group.

Dr. George Crile Jr. of the Crile Clinic of Cleveland also challenges the widely accepted premise of the value of a college education. Dr. Crile, who spent more than 20 years of formal education to become a surgeon, quotes Dr. James B. Conant's question, "Does not our present pattern, which involves a high-prestige value for the bachelor's degree, postpone too long entry into a significant career for many youths?"

In his "A Naturalistic View of Man," Dr. Crile points out "There is a critical time in the life of each cell, each organ, each animal, each society, and perhaps in the ecology of the world, at which the organism in question is particularly sensitive to its environment and best able to make an adaptive change. Before or after that time, stimulation may be ineffective."

He cites the Mandarin system, in which applicants for positions in the political hierarchy of China spent more than half of their lives studying for competitive examinations, as possibly one reason why China remained a sleeping giant for so many centuries. And he concludes, "overeducation might be as fatal to the development of a society as it is known to be to certain individuals."

Of all creatures man is the least governed by instinct and the most susceptible to the influence of early training, Dr. Crile states. If he had to make a choice of sending his child to nursery school or to college, he would pick nursery school for its more important early training. Recalling that science has been in the ascendancy since Darwin, he says that in its teaching there has been little conscious attempt to cultivate beauty, or to instruct in reverence or love. "No dominant humanistic philosophy has yet grown out of science."

Peak U.S. Work Force

Except for the year 1945, during World War II, last January saw Federal civilian employment hit a peak for all time at 2,960,813. The all-time peak, scored in 1945, was 3,731,970.

Perhaps a more equitable comparison would be with the Korean war peak. Then the civilian employment reached 2,651,414.

These statistics are important because they show that Congress' declaration of war on excess Federal jobs is a losing one. Those civilian agencies required to limit hiring did so. But exemptions were granted a half dozen large agencies—Veterans Administration, Tennessee Valley Authority, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Federal Aviation Administration, the Vietnamese-related Defense activities. Eliminating them, the Federal bureaucracy cut 16,839 jobs in January. But they have to trim 89,213 more jobs to reach the level set by Congress.

Congress decreed that the Federal civil service must be reduced to the 1966 job level. That was its price for agreeing to enact the surtax. The surtax has been in effect since July 1 last. Job attrition is several months behind attainment.

No one who is familiar with government is surprised. Cutting jobs is always much harder than raising taxes. The first hurts political organizations. The second hurts the taxpayer, who hears how he is being taken care of in election campaigns, and seldom thereafter.

BERRY'S WORLD

"This student protest isn't aimed for courses on black culture—it's for courses on student protests!"

The Road to Peace

David Lawrence Says Is College Education Worthwhile for Everybody?

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has spoken out emphatically against violence in the colleges and has urged support for "the voices of reason and calm." But, as a special committee in Congress currently investigating campus revolts has already learned from the testimony of witnesses, the whole subject is far more complex than it appears to be.

In the first place, a substantial number of colleges today have at least 5,000 students, and some have many times that number. Such groups cannot be governed or disciplined in the same way as in the past, when campus life was more relaxed and student-faculty relations less tense.

What is most important now is that the faculty members chosen shall themselves have personalities and attitudes which can influence students to respect law and order. Too many teachers are strong dissenters and side with the activists in campus troubles.

There is even a broader problem for the universities and colleges to tackle — they must be sure that, in the selection of students, the psychological side will be considered along with scholastic achievements.

Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Chicago, gave some interesting testimony a few days ago to the House Special Subcommittee on Education. He says that the most rebellious students here and abroad are those studying the social sciences and humanities. He declares that there are hardly any militants among students of medicine, engineering and the natural sciences, because they are "busy doing things, that are important to them," working in the laboratory and at their studies. But the main point he makes is that many students are perplexed. He adds:

"It is those students who do not quite know what they are preparing themselves for, and why — the students who sit around waiting for examinations rather than doing active work — who form the cadres of the student rebellion..."

"In my opinion there are, today, far too many students in the colleges who essentially have no business to be there. Some are there to evade the draft, many others out of a vague idea that it will help them to find better paying jobs, though they do not know what jobs they want. And again many go to college because they do not know what better to do and because it is expected of them. Their deep dissatisfaction with themselves and their inner confusion is projected against the institution of the university first, and against all institutions of society secondarily, which are blamed for their own inner weakness."

Dr. Bettelheim recalls that in previous years most youngsters went to work immediately after completing high school, and not long thereafter they were married and "actively meeting life, proving themselves as men or women." He says there were few, if any, adolescent revolts. He argues that many of the young men in colleges today "would be better off with a high-level vocational education which is closely linked to a work program which gives scope to their needs for physical activity and visible, tangible achievement."

Not enough educators have spoken out, especially those who are truly familiar with the psychological factors which influence young men to rouse their fellow students to a form of rebellion against authority. Some of the heads of universities have denounced the insurrections, but more light would be thrown out the whole subject by a careful study of some of the individual cases of misbehavior.

The admissions committees of colleges will certainly have to give second thought to the qualifications of applicants and especially to consider whether even superior grades in high school are sufficient to indicate what kind of student a youngster will turn out to be in college. Conversely, some Negro and white students have been admitted who did not have adequate preparation in the lower schools, and the result often is unhappiness for them as they are unable to keep up and come to feel inferior.

Above all, the big question is whether a college education is worth while for everybody, irrespective of his readiness and even desire to find a good job and get started earlier in life than some of the members of the same age group. This is a problem in which psychologists can furnish answers that will be of guidance to colleges and universities throughout the country.

Henry J. Taylor Says Housing and Wage-Rate Boost

Millions who want to buy a house are worried sick about the costs. Their worry strikes at a core of our national welfare. They're at least entitled to know the score.

The buying of houses and making of homes is a big buttress in our economy — and a marvelous influence toward good citizenship. But the first requirement in any understanding of the costs is to debunk the myth about our so-called "population explosion."

The cost pressure problem is simply not due to a population push.

It took the country until 1915 to reach the first 100 million. By 1967 we reached the second. But the highly publicized "population explosion" has been slowing down for a very long time and, in truth, there isn't any explosion at all.

Actually, we reached our highest annual birth rate in 1947 — 22 years ago. It was then 24.8 per thousand population and has been dropping steadily ever since. The population gain last year was only about 1½ per cent.

More automobiles than people are now "born" in the United States each year. More automobiles than people also are "dying" each year. The annual vehicle scrapage rate far exceeds our mortality rate.

Only about 800,000 new family formations a year have been created in the past 10 years. The average family today consists of 3.71 persons. The number of households is an estimated 84 million compared to 76 million in 1959. And about two-thirds of all house-owners now live in metropolitan counties where apartments abound. In fact, in our 202 million population we have fewer than 13 million — about 6½ per cent — living in rural communities on farms.

Beyond the past 10 years' general inflation, and such as special boosts as the current lumber squeeze, the wage-rate increase of more than 50 per cent is the overwhelming cause.

In April last year the Dayton, Ohio, bricklayers struck $100 million worth of general construction work for 73 days in a strike that raised their pay to $9.75 per hour; $19.50 an hour for overtime for bricklaying. In Michigan and northwestern Ohio eight construction unions struck for 85 days to win a 15 per cent increase each year for two years. A Toledo ironworkers strike boosted their rate to $7.63 an hour.

The average boom crane operator in New York City gets $7 an hour for operating the boom, plus 35 cents an hour vacation pay. He also gets double time for going up onto his crane, double time for an hour for coming down from his crane, and double time for half an hour for staying up for lunch. With that wage rate and the overtime they now make $30,000 to $40,000 a year — and some up to $50,000 — as a crane operator.

In dollarette volume housing starts to look up. In physical volume it is down. Public utility building looks up in dollars. But deflate these and the physical volume has hardly changed throughout the entire postwar period since 1945. In fact, it is no higher today than in 1945 and far below 1942. School construction looks up. In dollarettes the money figure has more than doubled since 1955. But we are building no more schools space than 10 years ago. Land and construction costs have eaten up the increase.

This is how the love and yearning of the house buyer is being knotted to death.

Drew Pearson Says Dictator Franco Has Cashed In on Influence of Lobbyists

WASHINGTON — The United States Senate, which has been doing a good job of scrutinizing the anti-ballistic missile system, should also take a careful look at the new military base agreement being signed this week with Dictator Franco in Spain.

Involved is backstage lobbying, together with a high-handed hold-up by Spain, plus a possible commitment whereby the United States might be sucked into a war to defend Spain if it got embroiled in war in North Africa.

The inside story goes back a long way to the day when President Harry Truman and his Secretary of State Dean Acheson both opposed putting bases in Spain or giving an economic aid to the Spanish dictatorship. They were overruled by Congress, thanks in part to a lobbyist, the late Charles Patrick Clark, to whom Franco paid $100,000 a year and who enjoyed a very chummy relationship with certain key Senators and Congressmen.

Clark lost regular amounts of money at gin rummy to Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine who worked consistently for aid to Spain. Clark journeyed to Spain with former Congressman Eugene Keogh, the Brooklyn Democrat, who became a booster for Spanish aid. Clark camped in the office of the late Sen. Pat McCarran of Nevada, who was vociferous in demanding that the United States come to the aid of the Spanish dictator.

As a result, Congress finally put across a pro-Spanish policy over the heads of the President and his Secretary of State, whose duty it is to direct foreign policy. It did this despite the fact that our NATO allies were vigorously opposed to Franco.

Pro-Moscow Franco Chief argument of the pro-Franco Senators was that Franco was against communism and would be a faithful ally of the United States in the cold war.

Today just the opposite is the case. Simultaneously he has barred American planes carrying nuclear bombs from flying over Spain and except for Russia he has also been the biggest supporter of communist Cuba at a time when Fidel Castro was trying to undercut democracy in Latin America.

Franco has maintained an airline to Cuba, has sold Castro a $40 million fleet of fishing boats on credit at a low interest rate, purchases annually around $40 million worth of goods from Cuba, and sells Cuba about $60 million to $70 million of goods every year, some of them strategic.

And while the United States was cracking down on other nations trading with Cuba by cutting off their aid, the USA continued to give military aid to Franco, even while he bolstered the economy of the No. 1 communist of the Western Hemisphere.

State Department officials have come to the conclusion that Generalissimo Franco has more gall than any other leader in Europe. When he first signed the base deal, he gave the USA the "right" to build air and naval bases for a total of around $2 billion. If he had not given the USA that "right," it's probable Franco would have been thrown out of office. His economy was tottering. There was political unrest below the surface.

Tough Negotiator The first ten-year lease expired in 1963, at which time the Kennedy administration renewed for five years after paying another $100 million. A new five-year extension is being negotiated this week. When talks first started last fall, Franco wanted $1.2 billion. He has now trimmed this down to around $300 million. But he also wants a pledge that the United States will come to Spain's aid in case of attack.

The Pentagon probably would have given Franco this pledge had it not been for State Department opposition. At one time during the negotiations the Pentagon sent Maj. Gen. David Burchinal to Madrid to conduct the talks. The State Department was flabbergasted when he signed a joint statement implying that the United States would come to Spain's aid in case of war in North Africa.

State Department officials foresaw the possibility that the United States could get bogged down in a very unpopular war similar to that in Vietnam, rescuing Spain in case of troubles with African colonies.

Despite State Department requests to see all of the negotiating papers, Gen. Burchinal refused. There has been continued jockeying back and forth between the State and Defense Departments, and at the present moment Senators on the Foreign Relations Committee are not quite sure whether the United States has a secret commitment to rescue the No. 1 Dictator of Europe or not.

Professor HHH

A young lady student recently came in to see Prof. Hubert Humphrey at Macalester College.

"I want you to know that I resent being asked to tell your secretary what I wanted to see you about," she announced as she sat down.

The former Vice President blinked. "It's just a little bit easier if I know what you want to talk about," he said mildly.

"I should not even have to ask for an appointment," said the young lady, unappeased. "You should be here all the time for us to see you."

"I have been here," replied Humphrey meekly.

"You weren't here yesterday," was the rejoinder. "That's true. I was away yesterday because of a death in the family."

"And you haven't been working very hard," persisted the irate student.

"Young lady," replied the former Vice President, "here is my schedule. I started classes at 8:30 this morning and my classes run until 10 o'clock tonight. I am working harder than I ever worked before."

"What a job!" the former Vice President sighed.

Russo-Sino Rift May Spur Soviet Talks With Nixon

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

SEOUL, KOREA (NEA)

Increasing Russo-Red Chinese tension may push the Kremlin to seek more seriously some way of protecting her U.S.-Western Europe back door.

If the Soviet-Communist China quarrel worsens, Brezhnev, Russia's major leader, may knock quick firmity at President Nixon's door.

Unpublicized information reaching here through a third country close to both Moscow and Peking indicates the Soviet Union within the past several months has sent an additional division of crack troops to the Mongolian border because of increased troubles with Communist China.

These presumably were troops freed because the occupation of Czechoslovakia moved ahead without strong opposition from the West.

The same third-country source reports that some of the highest military men in the Soviet Union argued strongly against the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia. They were worried that a tie-up of Soviet troops in the West for the Czech adventure could lead Mao Tse-tung's Chinese to action in the East.

If the United States and West Europe should react strongly on the West, said the generals, defending simultaneously on the Czechoslovakian and Chinese borders would present the Soviet Union with grave problems on two fronts thousands of miles apart.

This, these Soviet military men pointed out, could be a quite serious matter, given the limited capacity of the Soviet rail system on long stretches of the East-West route.

Despite considerable expenditures, the Soviet rail and highway systems are in no condition to permit Moscow to transport heavy numbers of men and great amounts of equipment from east to west with sufficient rapidity to make the Soviet generals rest easily. Air transport would be insufficient to handle more than a minor fraction of the men and equipment required.

One way or another, a great many troops and reservists and huge tonnages of equipment were mobilized and moved westward for the invasion of Czechoslovakia. This displacement could have caused serious problems in a two-front crisis.

The concern of the Soviet generals and the Soviet troop movements to Mongolia point up the significance of publicity given to the recent border clashes between Soviet and Chinese troops.

All this does not imply that war is about to break out between the Soviet Union and Red China. In the early 1930s, Russian and Japanese troops fought a series of major battles along the Manchurian border without these leading to war. In some cases, the battles were so serious that whole Japanese divisions were virtually put out of action. (Russian casualties are unknown.) These clashes were kept secret for years.

Both Russian and Red Chinese military-political concepts warn against fight on two fronts against two major enemies at the same time. When such danger arises, their doctrine requires they make a deal with one enemy to protect their rear while they have a showdown with the other.

This necessity may color both Russo-U.S. and Red Chinese-U.S. relations in the next few years.

Roadside Signs

March 20, 1969

Following is a copy of a letter of protest forwarded to Assemblyman H. Clark Bell: Editor, The Freeman

In the present day life of commerce, advertising is recognized as an integral part of the business of life and well-being. To limit business establishments in a resort area to the minuscule signs described in this bill would only serve to depress an area that has made tremendous progress in the last few years and promises added growth in the years just ahead of us. The last few years have seen the Catskill area grow and build new businesses extensively. Advertising has been one of the main pillars supporting this growth—advertising mainly in the form of roadside signs guiding the motorist to the various resort facilities. To remove this pillar would be a great economic blow to the entire area and to the large numbers of people who depend on the prosperity of these resorts for their jobs and livelihood. We are subjected to such massive doses of advertising in the form of TV commercials, and mail advertising both of which sometimes become quite objectionable. Why should the guise of conservation? Conservation of what? The main conservation in the bill is in the area of tax-supported "paperwork" jobs and an ever growing bureaucracy. To dictate the color combinations to be used on a sign is ridiculous. Many business color combinations are their trade mark. For the State Legislature to feel called upon to stipulate the colors used on individual business signs is untenable.

In our own Howard Johnson establishments over 50 homes are either maintained or supplemented through our payroll. We are only one business, but 50 people are paying taxes and supporting other local business because of our prosperity. We prosper only when the traveling public finds its way to us. So it is with countless other motels, restaurants, and a public-serving businesses. We need our highway signs to bring prosperity to our employees and to our communities.

Respectfully yours,

Bird Calls and Lizards--But Also VC Mortar Fire

This is the fourth of a series of five articles written especially for the Kingston Daily Freeman by a young free-lance reporter who went to Vietnam to take a look at the war. He has long opposed the present struggle, and admits to a bias against war in general. He is an Army veteran, having served two years during peacetime. He offers as his principal credentials for this series the fact that he was, for a brief time, in a place where most people have never been.

By JEROME HILL

Alpha Company was dug into a neck of woods which stuck into a large clearing so that three sides gave onto the open space and the fourth was jungle. In the late afternoon, American artillery back at the base camp began to bracket this position with smoke shells so that the gunners would know exactly where Alpha Company was in case it was attacked later.

The fire was very precise, with the puffs of smoke standing against the sky just a few yards out from the perimeter.

Artillery fire was all the help the company could expect from battalion now on. The base camp was only two miles away, but that meant a day's march. And it would be too risky to bring in reinforcements by helicopter after dark.

A tension came over the men as dark approached. Two nights before the company had been attacked; last night it hadn't. Normally, the attacks would come around 8 or 8:20 p.m., just after dark. By that time, everyone was lying or sitting next to his hole, ready to roll into it.

But a half an hour passed harmlessly, and the men relaxed. Bird and lizard calls came from the jungle. The company's mortar opened up with the first of the 81-mm rounds it would send at random into the nearby jungle throughout the night, theoretically to discourage people creeping up.

The men smeared on mosquito repellent and went to sleep on their air mattresses.

Up Before Daybreak

Next morning they got up at five, before daybreak. This was the other time the enemy was most likely to hit, and Alpha Company sat around quietly, the men cupping their butts and looking across the open space at the blank jungle until full day broke.

An attack now was unlikely, and somebody's portable tape recorder began playing "Moonlight in Vermont."

Then the routine began again. Breakfast, the roaring of the supply helicopters, destruction of left-over rations, the regular explosions of the company's 81-mm mortar as its gunners drop shells along the path the men are to follow out, in hopes of discouraging an ambush.

Each shell blows a six or seven-yard circular hole in the jungle, rimmed with a waist-high circle of pulverized underbrush. For yards around, everything is covered with a rough, blackish-brown dust which smells like abandoned horse stalls.

And Alpha company moves along the row of holes, over fallen trees and through wild hog wallows, and nobody bothers them. For the moment, they are lucky.

BUNKER with shaded 'patio' that was the author's home for three nights while in Vietnam.

Charley and Delta companies, meanwhile, were back at Landing Zone Mustang, resting up behind the barbed wire and sandbags after having taken heavy punishment for eight straight days.

The week before, Charley Company had been walking through the jungle into progressively stiffer enemy resistance. They were ambushed and they ambushed, and always they ran up against more NVA troops.

On the assumption he was working nearer to some major enemy position, Company Commander Frank Galligan called for assistance, which came in the form of Delta Company, under Capt. Frank Vavrek.

Sure enough, they quickly came across the NVA bunker. The Americans blew up 145 bunkers and 150 other enemy positions of one kind and another. "But how do you blow up a hole in the ground?" said Lt. Tony Adams of Company small, two tons of rice, 100 pounds of dried fish, about 2,000 rounds of AK-47 ammunition, an aid station and tools for a dental clinic.

Using Air Rifles They also found classroom areas with grandstand, and a small firing range. Here, the soldiers found BBs instead of bullets in the target pits, and Delta companies moved out leading them to suppose that the NVA was using air rifles for marksmanship training.

and came up against another, three bullets that broke an arm and a leg.

The key to this position was a machine gun hidden in a clump of bamboo, whose stems were curved in toward the middle to make a sort of dome on which grenades and rockets exploded harmlessly or bounced off.

This gun was supported by other automatic weapons on the right and left flanks, and by camouflaged snipers in the trees. One of these turned out to be the only enemy body seen by the Americans during the whole action.

"One of our guys spotted him and shot him out of his tree," Captain Sweett said. "He was just one big leaf. I wouldn't have known it was a body if a leg hadn't fallen out in midair." The sniper couldn't be included in the body count, however, under the rules, since his corpse was never recovered.

The at first voluntary, and then involuntary, hero of the attack on the machine gun was Doc Sweett, the medic attached to the Second Platoon of Charley Company.

The scout dog had alerted in front of the machine gun, but not in time to prevent the column's first three men from being cut down. One of the three was the dog handler, who fell dead practically on top of the hidden gun.

Sweett, not knowing who was dead and who alive, worked his way forward on his belly between the gun's traverses, and managed to get his hand on the dead dog handler's boot before he himself was hit by

That afternoon the Americans pulled back, unable to capture the enemy position. Sweett managed to drag himself 20 yards down the trail toward the American camp.

The other seriously wounded men from the two companies were evacuated. Two soldiers, in shock, were wrapped in ponchos, and tied up for the night. One of them kept repeating the name of a sergeant who had been shot between the eyes standing beside him. The two were flown out in the morning, closer; the machine gun'll get along with the less seriously wounded.

Hawaii's Capitol

The Youngest With the Newest

HONOLULU (UPI) —The nation's youngest state now has the nation's newest capitol, a gleaming $25 million edifice with soaring columns representing palm trees and an open-air roof sweeping upwards like the peak of a volcano.

The new structure, about the height of a 10-story building has already become a popular tourist attraction, a regular stop for buses that also carry visitors to Diamond Head, Waikiki and Pearl Harbor.

The State Legislature convened in the capitol in mid-February while workmen were putting the final touches on the building. As the legislators deliberated, a green and white sign near an entrance warned: "Caution: use hard hat."

Gov. John A. Burns and several other top state officials moved into the building in early March, and it was dedicated March 15.

Beautiful View "In this great state capitol, there are no doors at the grand entrances, which open toward the mountains and the sea," Burns once said. "There is no roof or dome to separate its vast inner court from the heavens. It is by means of the striking architecture of this new structure that Hawaii cries out to the nations of the Pacific and of the world this message:

"We are a free people. We are an open society. We welcome all visitors to our islands."

If there is one word to describe the building, it is the adjective used by the governor: open.

There is no doorway. The visitors enter the capitol by walking up a set of widely spaced stairs into a vast courtyard. Standing in the middle of the courtyard, he can look straight up into the sky and see fluffs of clouds pushed gently along by the trade winds.

NEW KIDNEY — Lionel Gaedy, 47, of San Francisco, Calif., relaxes in his University of California hospital room in San Francisco. Gaedy received a new kidney from a 16-year-old patient who died at the U. C. Medical Center in Los Angeles. The kidney arrived in San Francisco St. Patrick's Day via airfreight, enclosed in a pasteboard box. Doctors said the successful airfreighting of an organ was "hopefully the beginning of a nationwide life-saving service." (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Ellenville Faces
Aid Cut of $184,184

ELLENVILLE — Governor Rockefeller's proposed state aid cuts would mean a loss of $184,684 to the Ellenville School District in the fiscal year 1969-70.

The Governor has proposed to the Legislature revision of several state aid formulas for the state's 1970-71 fiscal year. Since that fiscal year will begin April 1, 1970, the aid revisions would affect the school year 1969-70.

Itemized losses to the Ellenville District include $61,892 in expenditures for professional salaries. The proposed reduction puts the aid per pupil at $425.

The flat grant aid would be fixed at 31 per cent instead of 36 per cent of $760, and minimum apportionment of 34.5 per cent instead of 40 per cent.

thereby reducing Ellenville's aid by $19,786.

A loss of $33,126 would be realized if BOCES aid were to be placed on an aid ratio basis.

Size correction aid would be replaced in part by some special aid to be devised, but would comprise a loss of $18,619 at present.

Transportation aid would be placed on an aid ratio basis, meaning a loss of $51,265 to the Ellenville District.

Every district in the state would have its aid reduced should the bill be enacted into law, according to an analysis by the Education Department.

The official position of the state Board of Regents and the Education department states that "what is needed in this period of inflation is an increase in aid rather than a decrease, or even maintenance of present levels of support."

Present Final Arguments
In Mohawk Indians' Trial

CORNWALL, ONT. (AP) — Indian reservation and can be guilty of trespassing. Atty. John Sopinka of Toronto argued that the Indians were never paid for the right-of-way across Cornwall Island between spans of the International Bridge by the Canadian St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

He also said the city of Cornwall had no legal right to annex the island in 1955 which he said it did without notifying Mohawks living on the St. Regis Reservation.

Malcolm MacDonald, lawyer for the Crown, agreed in court that Sopinka's arguments voiced a legal complaint but that it should be taken through normal civil channels.

The seven Indians facing Crown legal action for their part in the demonstration were among 43 adults and five juveniles arrested. Most cases were dropped when officers could not identify persons they had arrested.

Concluded Wednesday were the cases of Kahn-Tineta Horn and her brother Frank. The two are accused of blocking the International Bridge here during a demonstration by Mohawk Indians to press demands for duty-free passage between the U.S. and Canada.

The Indians maintain such passage is guaranteed them by the Jay Treaty of 1797.

Wednesday a defense lawyer for the Indians said the public has no access to any road on an

Ike Growing Weaker

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower "continues to grow weaker" despite efforts to reverse the heart condition that threatens his life, doctors reported today.

In a brief morning bulletin on the 78-year-old general's condition, Brig. Gen. Frederic Hughes, commander of Walter Reed Army Hospital, said "Gen. Eisenhower continues to grow weaker."

"Evidence of congestive heart failure continue unchanged," Hughes said.

Mrs. Eisenhower remained at her husband's bedside.

The morning medical bulletin on Eisenhower said:

Nixon Is Caller
"Gen. Eisenhower continues to grow weaker. He sleeps for longer periods, but when awake is lucid and able to communicate with members of the family and, last evening, with President Nixon. The evidence of congestive heart failure persist unchanged. Mrs. Eisenhower remains close to the general's bedside and is a constant source of support and encouragement both to the general and others present."

Hughes would not answer direct questions from newsmen. The next medical bulletin was scheduled for late afternoon in the absence of major change in Eisenhower's condition.

President Nixon made a spur-of-the-moment trip to the hospital Wednesday for a brief chat with Eisenhower. A Nixon aide emphasized the President was not "called" to the bedside, but had decided to make the visit on his own.

Eisenhower, his wife Mamie also reported stable.

The physicians described his response to treatment as "poor" and when asked if he could survive without the treatment he is undergoing, they answered with a terse "no."

The doctors also said they were "uncertain" how long a patient in Eisenhower's condition could be expected to endure severe congestive heart failure.

Unfavorable Sign
He added the "failure to respond is considered an unfavorable prognostic sign."

Hughes said the ability of Eisenhower's heart to perform its normal blood-circulating functions is showing a "slow deterioration."

Doctors said Eisenhower had shown no new heart disturbances on Wednesday and is still receiving oxygen continuously through a tube placed in his nose. His blood pressure was also reported stable.

The physicians described his

Annual Meeting

19,145 Admissions at Benedictine

KINGSTON A grand total of 19,145 patients were treated at Benedictine Hospital during the calendar year 1968, according to Sister Mary Charles.

The statistics were presented at the Annual Dinner Meeting of the Benedictine Hospital Medical and Dental Staff March 18.

Reports of the various departments were submitted: Dr. James Clarkin, chairman of Department of Medicine; Dr. Joseph Conrad, Chairman of Department of Surgery; Dr. William Feldman, Chairman of Department of OB-Gyn; Dr. Vincent Amatrano, Chairman of Department of General Practice; Dr. Joseph Webber, Chairman of Department of Anesthesia; Dr. Herbert Derman, Chairman of Department of Pathology; Dr. Milton Grover, Chairman of Department of Radiology; Dr. Paul Hoveman, Chairman of Department of Pediatrics, and Dr. John Olivet, Medical Director of the hospital.

Sister Mary Charles presented a full report of the activities for 1968 which were facilitated by the addition of the Spellman Pavilion. Sister reported a very effective year with the help of her able assistant, Gerard Nocton, who has become a vital part of our community. He was congratulated by Sister for his untiring efforts on behalf of the Benedictine Hospital and its employees.

Following are the statistics for 1968:

Number of Surgical Procedures 3,163; Number of Emergency Room Treatments (includes 1,471 patients who were admitted) 7,314; Number of X-ray Examinations 18,696; Number of Laboratory Examinations 122,809; Number of Electrocardiograms 3,561; Number of Physical Therapy Treatments 10,557.

Sister Mary Charles continued "During the year 1968 the hospital admitted and treated 6,771 patients in addition to the 142 in the hospitals as of Jan. 1. It also treated as outpatients a total of 11,416 for a grand total of 19,145. It should be of interest to note at this point that during January 1969, we established a new record for Benedictine Hospital in the total number of patient days and admissions for a given month.

JCC Heads Hear Eban At Parley

KINGSTON Seymour Werbalowsky, president of the Kingston Jewish Community Council, and Stanley King, executive director, participated recently in the National Leadership Conference on Peace in the Middle East convened by the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations.

Also participating in parts of the conference were Abraham Streifer, general chairman of the 1969 Kingston United Jewish Appeal Campaign, and Mrs. Streifer; Richard M. Kalish, past chairman of the campaign and presently initial gifts co-chairman; and Alfred Rose, president of the Kingston Jewish Community Center.

Speaking at the Conference were Abba Eban, Minister for Foreign Affairs of the State of Israel; General S. L. A. Marshall; Senator Stuart Symington (D., Mo.); Senator Jacob K. Javits (R., N. Y.); Dr. A. Roy Eckardt, Professor, Lehigh University; Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, president of the American Jewish Committee; and Ambassador Josef Telokah, Permanent Representative of Israel to the United Nations.

Dr. Hoppenstedt To Head Up 'Vet' Program

NEW PALTZ The Ulster County 4-H department has announced that Dr. Clifford Hoppenstedt of Gardiner has agreed to head up this year's 4-H Veterinary Science Program, which will have its first meeting Tuesday, April 1 from 7:30 p.m. at the New Paltz Middle School.

Other veterinarians agreeing to work with the program are Dr. James Cone of Ellenville, Dr. Avery Smith of Kingston and Dr. Andre Ross of High Falls.

All 4-H'ers, 13 and over, are invited to attend the five meeting series during the month of April, beginning with Tuesday's, which will cover the topics of Bacteria and Diseases of Animals.

which gives us an insight of the things to come during 1969. Our new Spellman wing gives us the ultimate in patient care facilities. In this Pavilion we now have an entire floor dedicated to the care of maternity patients, with the very latest in nursery facilities for medical-surgical patients and one floor for rehabilitation which gives us an added bed capacity of 147. 1968 ended with us having a much stronger financial position and we are looking forward with great expectations to 1969."

Many Alterations

"Much has been done in the way of alterations to the older sections of our hospital buildings. Many new offices have been established for such departments as housekeeping, nursing, purchasing, personnel, dietary, inhalation therapy, social service, health service, medical director, in-service training, library, which has helped to relieve the overcrowding of many of these departments which existed for many years. The medical records department has been expanded to five times the space they had originally occupied. The EKG department has also been moved into new facilities, again to give them expanded space. The Pediatric department has had the first of a series of renovations completed thereby giving them additional bed space, waiting room facilities, a playroom and additional examining room. There is much to be done in this area yet. The sewing and linen department has also been moved to a new area thereby giving them additional space which they so desperately needed. Our new six bed Intensive Care Unit has now been completed and is in constant use. It is expected that our new Coronary Care Unit of four beds will be completed in the very near future. The X-ray department is presently undergoing extensive remodeling, including the purchase of a new diagnostic X-ray machine with the latest features including a closed circuit television. This department will also have a new isotope laboratory for diagnostic procedures along with much expanded office and waiting room facilities."

Several Changes

Several department head changes occurred during the year. John Lewis joined our staff as Food Service Manager in September 1968; Miss Dorothy Grigsby was added to our staff May 6, 1968 to form our new Social Service Department; Mrs. Marjorie Keenan was added to the staff in June to head our new home for Senior Citizens located on the second floor of our former Nurses' Residence; Adam Panarese joined us in October as chief engineer. All of these people come to us with very high recommendations and have proven their ability as of this date."

"Our newest department — "Social Service," has made great strides during the past year. We hope that it will continue to grow and be used to its fullest extent by the medical staff. During 1968 it handled 539 patients."

"During 1968 we received our Joint Accreditation survey and as a result of this we were approved for three years. We now have an Operating Certificate from the State showing our official bed capacity to be 252, even though at the present time we are not using this complement of beds. The actual total number of beds in use today is 237, this will be increased of course when our new Coronary Care Unit is completed and the old unit is returned to its use as a four bed semi-private. The reason for the additional discrepancy between the 252 and the current figure is due to us using several rooms on each floor of the Spellman Wing as private rooms instead of the two-bed facility originally laid out for."

"Our Benedictine Auxiliary conducted many activities during 1968 under the leadership of Mrs. Audrey Eichelmann, president, and continues to pay off its pledge to the hospital at a very substantial amount each year. Mrs. Eichelmann at the end of the year turned the reins of the Auxiliary over to Mrs. Stella Coppo, new president."

"Our Nursing Department operated under many hardships during 1968 due to a shortage of nurses and the gigantic task of moving to the new Spellman Wing.

"Our Volunteer service has been on a continuous increase under the direction of Mrs. Betty Valeo. Many services are covered for which we are sincerely grateful. The volunteer hours amounted to 8,040 and the Candy Strippers contributed 5,493 hours."

"We are proud of the new Cerebral Palsy structure which is almost completed. It blends exceptionally well with the present hospital complex. We look forward to the opening of this very active facility."

Sister Mary Charles extended thanks to Father Collins, the hospital chaplain, for the many services rendered to our patients during the year. A special word of thanks and appreciation go to all who have contributed their time, efforts and money to the hospital, to the city administration, fire, police and public works as well as the local newspapers, and radio stations. Without the help and sincere understanding of all mentioned in this report, another year of progress at the Benedictine Hospital could not have been recorded.

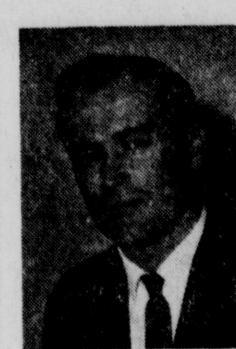

Dr. John L. Alley, president of the staff chaired the meeting. Three members of the advisory board were on hand — Adrian Kaplan, Ernest Schirmer and Lawrence Quilty. Invocation was given by the Most Rev. James McManus.

Hercules Notes First Quarter Sales Increase

PORT EWEN

Hercules Incorporated earnings for the first quarter of 1969 will probably show an increase over those of the corresponding quarter of 1968.

Henry A. Thouron, president and chief executive officer of the company told stockholders at their annual meeting today.

In reviewing the company's performance for 1968, the Hercules president pointed out that total sales were up 12 per cent in spite of a slight decline in government business.

Earnings for 1968 increased 14 per cent to $2.69 per share compared to $2.37 the previous year, a net increase of 32 cents per share.

In discussing the first quarter 1969 performance, Thouron said that the 65-day-long dock strike had the effect of penalizing earnings because of loss of shipments abroad. For the year as a whole, provided there is no real downturn in the economy, Thouron predicts another year of good growth for Hercules.

Discussing long-term growth, Thouron predicted the 1970's to be a period of excellent growth for the chemical firm. Products from new lines and increased capacity from the extensive capital investment program carried out since 1965 have started to come on stream. He believes these new facilities will be running at a high rate of capacity in the early 70's. He also pointed out that the company has planned a continued, substantial yearly capital investment program through 1974.

WE INVITE THE RUPTURED OF KINGSTON TO A Private Trial Fitting Of New Rice Support

If you are ruptured and wear a truss, now is your opportunity to get a 20-day trial of a scientifically constructed rupture support "made up" to meet the needs of your particular and individual condition.

Rice Fitting Experts of Adams, N. Y., will be at the GOV. CLINTON HOTEL, KINGSTON, N. Y., SATURDAY, MARCH 29 to give free demonstration and private trial fitting of a Support designed to comfortably hold any reducible rupture—large or small—no matter where located or what your work may be.

Backed by more than 75 years' experience and fitted by Experts with a thorough knowledge of what they are doing, the Modern Rice Support should prove to be a revelation to the most skeptical—and you are allowed a 20-Day Money Back trial period to see if this is so. No binding, cutting or chafing, but a comfortable, evenly directed pressure at just the right spot to keep bowel from escaping.

Thousands have reported entire satisfaction with the Rice Support, so why endure the burden of reducible rupture suffering if you can be free from it? Anyway, it will cost you nothing to come in and learn about Rice Methods and the wonderful opportunity it offers. Just ask at the hotel desk for the Rice Experts and they will do the rest. Hours: 10-12 a.m., 2-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. There is absolutely no obligation, and you are promised friendly, courteous treatment.

KINGSTON around a central hollow mold effort. According to Charles H. Walgreen's Drug Stores are entering the Easter buying season with the largest inventory of Easter candies in its history. According to Robert H. Schwab, Candy and Food Items Buyer, the confections market is unusually tight this season with the supply not up to the demand.

"Specialties" in Easter candy seem to be the thing this year, according to Schwab. These are generally displays of chocolate specialties built Where does The State of New York National Bank get the audacity to introduce another credit card?

As it is, store windows in the mid-Hudson Valley are slowly being covered by a veil of credit card decals.

So it's a sensible question.

Why introduce another credit card?

The answer may surprise you.

Although the mid-Hudson Valley has a lot of credit cards, it has never had—until now—the biggest credit card in the world.

BankAmericard.

This card is accepted over more counters than any other card in existence. (The others aren't even close.)

A credit card is useful only to the extent of its acceptability by store owners, airlines, rent a cars, hotels, and so on.

In that respect, this card is the best there is.

It's been in use for more than ten years and it's firmly established all across this country and abroad.

It's accepted at all the usual places and many unusual ones.

(One of the reasons for such wide acceptance of BankAmericard is its efficiency. The man you buy things from can get his money the same day you buy them. Or the next morning, if it's after banking hours.)

Having automatic credit with so many stores, companies and professional people is no small advantage in the paper work it saves you: one neat monthly statement in place of many different bills.

Besides credit, BankAmericard is also good for a cash advance. This, too, is readily available.

With BankAmericard you can walk into any of more than 10,000 banking offices in this country and abroad and get a cash advance of up to $150.

(Or the equivalent, if you're overseas, in pounds, yen etc.)

Membership in BankAmericard is free.

There isn't even a service charge if you pay your bill every month.

But you can also pay off your bill in installments over a much longer period, at a small monthly charge.

BankAmericard will be available soon. And now you know why The State of New York National Bank had the audacity to introduce it.

You'll find the biggest credit card in the world at The State of New York National Bank.

MEMBER OF BANKERS TRUST NEW YORK CORPORATION

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House subcommittee has accused the Army of a "billion-dollar boo boo" in developing a new tank because: —Although the tank is for reconnaissance, it can be heard three miles away. —It has a "rooster tail exhaust" system that makes it an easy target.

—Its caseless ammunition is ultrainflamable, leaves burning residue in the breech which can prematurely ignite a round, and is adversely affected by moisture, oil, and rough handling.

—Due to a problem with fuel-tank leaks, frequent checks for spilled fuel should be made to prevent fires."

When operating in jungle or heavy underbrush, vegetation will clog air intake grilles and the radiator, requiring frequent cleaning to avoid overheating."

—The (Shillelagh) missile must not be fired when the launch vehicle is in motion."

—Under extremely dusty conditions, the present air cleaner requires cleaning or replacement every 1½ hours."

These were the findings of a previously classified document that Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., ordered the Army to release Tuesday after six days of secret testimony on the Sheridan tank.

Stratton, chairman of the subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee, said "the people have a right to know this incredible story."

Stratton charged that the Army had rushed the weapons system into combat and mass production in order to eliminate its possible cutback or elimination by the Bureau of the Budget and the secretary of defense.

He succeeded during the hearings in winning admission from one Army officer, Lt. Col. Stan Sheridan, that the tank was recommended for production for budgetary reasons although tests had indicated there were many problems.

Later, Sheridan's superiors heatedly denied this, despite an internal memorandum in the subcommittee's possession in which this point was stressed by Sheridan.

Lt. Gen. Austin W. Betts, chief of research and development for the Army, in often heated exchanges with Stratton, said it was relatively routine procedure to recommend production before all bugs in a system had been worked out.

Betts said the tank was recommended because there was an urgent need for it in Vietnam, and that he was sure the problems could be surmounted. He said this was his only consideration.

Stratton, who termed the tank "a billion dollar boo boo," sharply told Betts: "We don't want to get a snow job here." He termed the general's comments "self-serving" and not in accord with results of the investigation.

Supersonic Transport Faces Doubtful Future—Final Decision Expected Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The supersonic transport, which has generated almost as much noise within government as critics say it would in flight, faces a doubtful future at the hands of a budget-conscious White House. A final decision on the controversial program is expected soon after a report goes to President Nixon this week from Secretary of Transportation John Volpe.

Volpe has until recently been an outspoken supporter of developing an American SST and for this reason the report is expected to be favorable if not an outright recommendation for continued work.

Spadework for the report, however, was done by a review board of Cabinet undersecretaries and high-level agency heads known to have included bitter critics of the SST.

Although the report is likely to carry considerable weight, it goes to the White House at a time when President Nixon is combining the budget for soft spots and may be reluctant to restore funds that former President Johnson left out of his budget.

Volpe took note of this in a recent interview with the Associated Press when he said "all of us recognize the inflationary picture."

Program leaders have estimated more than $200 million will be needed to continue SST development in the next fiscal year, if the 1,800-mile-an-hour airliner is to become available for commercial use by 1976 or 1977.

The Boeing Co., Seattle, has a contract to build two prototype, flying test models, using engines provided by General Electric Co., Cincinnati. The Federal Aviation Administration has estimated that the government and contractors will have spent $1.5 billion on the program by the time the prototype phase has been completed.

SST backers say the United States must develop its own model to remain competitive with the French-British Concorde and the Russian TU144. Both the foreign models have flown, but are not expected to be in commercial use until the 1970s.

Critics of the program want development of an SST held up until some way can be found to curb the noise it makes in landings and takeoffs and when it crashes through the sound barrier.

Some critics also say that with only a few more years work a hypersonic transport may be developed that will make the SST obsolete.

RV Cabinet Hears Panel

STONE RIDGE Taylor Law at the March meeting delved into the concept and purpose of the law; structure and functions of the Public Employment Relations Board; basic procedures of negotiations under the law and a summary of the law stressing its purpose of making negotiations a healthy not a bitter process.

The Taylor Law and its implications for the Rondout Valley School District were discussed at the March meeting of the Rondout Valley Community Cabinet.

The Community Cabinet was set up at the beginning of the school year to establish better communication between school and community. Members of the group are from all areas of the school district and reflect backgrounds.

The cabinet meets each month at the Rondout Valley Middle School to discuss a wide range of subjects that interest and affect both school and community. Recently members of the group wrote letters to the county legislature, expressing their support of an improved tax structure and a county-wide reassessment.

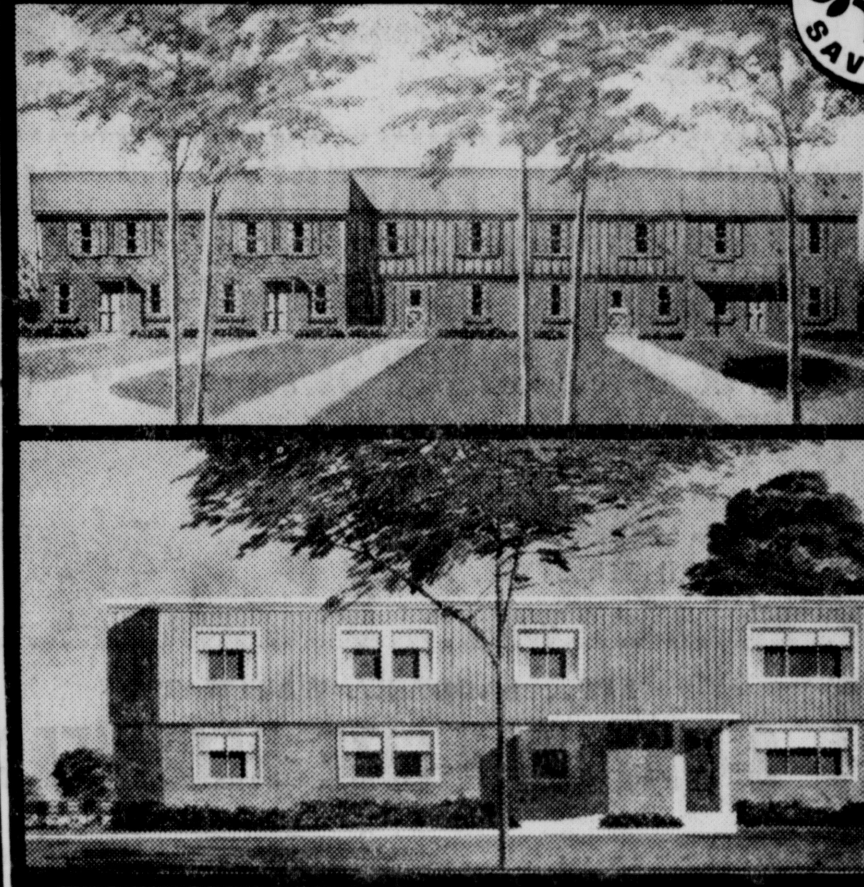

The panel discussion on the Taylor Law at the March meeting delved into the concept and purpose of the law; structure and functions of the Public Employment Relations Board; basic procedures of negotiations under the law and a summary of the law stressing its purpose of making negotiations a healthy not a bitter process.

Participating on the panel were Philip Buonfiglio, Middle School principal; Mrs. Mabel LaFalce, school nurse teacher at Kerhonkson; Mrs. Ann Sheeley of the Rondout Valley Secretaries Association; Robert Kuster, high school social studies teacher; Robert Lohfeld, meeting chairman; Robert Kuster, high school social studies teacher and Philip Buonfiglio, Middle School principal.

Look what happens when Savings Banks go to work on the low-income housing problem.

In 1968 alone, over $120-million was committed by Savings Banks to special low-income housing projects for New York State families. This means 6,000 units, housing more than 20,000 people.

From Albany to Buffalo, from Binghamton to Ogdensburg, from Watertown to Riverhead, Savings Banks have invested in low-income housing to meet the needs of people where they live.

Apartment houses . . . garden apartments . . . housing developments . . . thousands of one- and two-family homes, built or rebuilt in communities all over New York State. Shown above are some examples of Savings Bank-sponsored housing for families with low incomes.

Working closely with local civic groups and neighborhood organizations, Savings Banks, individually or jointly, are building low-income housing . . . not just in their own communities but throughout the entire state.

In 1969 your Savings Banks are planning to do even more to help low-income families get good housing at prices they can afford to pay.

DA's Staff Really Dressed Up

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

KINGSTON

A charming Irish smile backed up with sparkling blue-green eyes can do no less than dress up the DA's staff of assistants. But don't let appearance fool you, this gal is deadly earnest when it comes to jurisprudence.

This aptly describes Miss Ellen G. Donovan of this city, the newly appointed assistant district attorney. Appropriately enough the appointment to the DA's staff was announced on St. Patrick's Day.

Quite a Distinction

A frank young lady, who has no qualms about revealing her age—she's 26—is believed to be the first woman to hold such office in the local District Attorney's department. This is quite a distinction, and a short confrontation on any subject proves the appointment is merited.

Miss Donovan says she's pleased with her law career and admits that she has always wanted to be a lawyer. There is a family background that may be called an influence. Her uncle, John Gotelli, was also an assistant district attorney, and her grandfather, George Con-han, now deceased, was a well-known attorney in New York City.

She had some minor second thoughts about a career. At one time she considered being a physical therapist and even applied to Russell Sage to major in the subject. However, after a week in school she applied her feminine prerogative and decided on law as a career.

Also at one time she thought she might like to do legal aid work in Hawaii. But this desire was short-lived and Hawaii's loss is our gain.

Her new duties include representing the district attorney in city court and in Town of Esopus Justice Court. She has opened quite a few eyes in her recent appearances in city court.

Native of Milton

Our local modern-day Portia is a native of Milton and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Donovan of this city. Her parents were thrilled and surprised by her appointment. The Donovan family also includes a brother, James, who is 20 and employed locally. Her other brother, Peter Michael Donovan, 22, was killed in Vietnam last Aug. 31.

Although she is an extremely busy young lady, she makes time for a few hobbies. She likes music and the piano in particular, and has just started to take piano lessons to fulfill this form of expression. Miss

Donovan also likes to play bridge, duplicate bridge and enjoys swimming in the summer. She feeds her adventurous nature with a flying lesson from time to time.

She serves as a makeup artist for the Coach House Players and enjoys this hobby and especially the people she meets.

Miss Donovan enjoys telling about how she became an associate in the law offices of Alvin E. Moscovitz, Main Street, Kingston. While at law school, she read a notice on the bulletin board that Attorney Moscovitz was seeking the services of an associate. She applied and was accepted.

The DA's distaffer has been associated with Moscovitz since Jan. 1, 1968. She graduated from Albany Law School where she attended from 1964 to 1967.

She replaces Robert A. MacKinnon on DA Joseph Torracca's staff. MacKinnon resigned "to meet the demands" of his private law practice.

Currently, Miss Donovan is secretary of the County Bar Association, a member of the Board of Directors and chairman of the Scholarship and Legislative Committees of Ulster County Business and Professional Women.

Speaking to this unique young lady will leave an indelible mark on any conversationalist.

Annual Scout Spectacular Saturday at Armory

KINGSTON

With only a few days to go, all area Boy Scouts are practicing their scouting skills and making final plans for their display booths. The big day is Saturday, March 29, when the annual Onteora Trail Scouting Spectacular takes place at the

New York State Armory on Manor Avenue.

Shown in accompanying photo are boys from Troop 9 Kingston preparing for the big event. This is one of the big days of the year for all the participating units. They go all out in planning what they hope will be the number one booth on Saturday. Bill Daum, Scoutmaster for Troop 9, says his boys have attended every year and are always anxious to compete. Last year the Troop had on display a "monkey bridge" which was one of the highlights of the Spectacular. This year they will have an even more exciting display which features a tower and a 25 foot long rope which the boys ride down.

Last year 25 units, including Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Explorers, participated in the event. Each scouting unit erects a booth that is intended to show a particular skill of the unit. This year's theme for the Cub Scouts is "Cub Scout Hobbies". Boy Scouts and Explorers may choose a theme from any category. The units are encouraged to have some type of action taking place within each booth. During the judging, this is one of the main areas that is looked upon. Booths are also judged on identification, attractiveness, and boys being in uniform as well as several other items. The work should primarily be done by Scouts where practical.

Also taking place throughout the day will be various competitive events. There will be a Cub Scout event and a Boy Scout event during each hourly segment. Cub Scout events will include a mini tug-o-war with a 600 pound total weight limit and a nail driving contest, these two events being for Webelos only. Other events are the ping pong ball on a spoon relay, sack race relay, the wheelbarrow relay, and the Paul Revere relay. Boy Scouts will be participating in events such as fire by flint and steel, and a knot tying

Dutchess Youth Awaits Jury on Paltz Incident

NEW PALTZ

A 17-year-old Dutchess County youth was in the Ulster County jail today without bail pending grand jury action on a charge of attempted robbery in the first degree, as the result of a State Police investigation of an incident here at 9:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Sean Andrew Kelly, of 27 Market Street, Wappingers Falls, was arrested near Fishkill Wednesday by Senior Investigator Charles Teelon and BCI Investigator Fred Cooper of the Kingston zone headquarters.

Arraigned before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly, Kelly was ordered committed to jail without bail. The youth also was charged with unlawful possession of a firearm.

According to investigators Kelly is alleged to have attempted to rob Terry Darnum, 19, of 60 Church Street, New Paltz, after the latter went to the trailer home of a friend, Ronald Grazul, 21, on Elliott Lane in this village. Troopers said Kelly appeared and brandished a .22 caliber pistol demanding Darnum's wallet. Authorities reported that Grazul thwarted the holdup by picking up a shotgun and disarming the defendant, who fled.

Search for Kelly ended yesterday with his arrest.

Reminder Given For Medicaid

People 65 and over who have not yet enrolled in the voluntary doctor bill insurance part of Medicare have only this week left in which to sign up.

George J. Habernig, social security manager, said that although most older people in Ulster County are already enrolled in the program that supplements their basic hospital insurance under Medicare, some still need to take action by March 31, in order to get the protection.

Those not signed up for the protection are urged to get in touch with the social security office. The office is located at 57 Albany Avenue, Kingston and the telephone number is 338-7307. The office is open from 9 to 5 every day Monday through Friday and on Thursday evenings until 7 p. m.

Employer First, Then Worker—New Twist at Job Training Program in Mississippi

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP)—also to the other members of the family. There is a lot more to ending poverty and filling empty stomachs than handing out piles of welfare money," says Dr. P.T. Bankston, associated director of the center. About 12,000 field hands—both men and women, many of whom were cotton workers—have been thrown out of work in recent years with the advent of federal minimum wage laws, weed control chemicals and advanced mechanization. Into this situation stepped the Mississippi Research and Development Center. The state took over the unused Greenville Air Force Base to start a pilot project with money from state agencies, the federal government and the Ford Foundation. And the Delta Resources Development Center was born. Today, some 300 persons live, and work and learn at the center. A trainee, sent to the project by the state welfare office, begins with a basic education class to learn to read and write. At the end of six weeks, a trainee has taken 100 tests and is typically shown ability in one of 30 areas, indicating he could be trained for any one of several hundred jobs. The one facility in actual production at the center is a wire harness plant, turning out material for a washing machine company. Then an employer is located, before the training begins, so it is making money.

Man Arrested in City Raid, Drug Possession Charged

KINGSTON — The center of narcotic traffic for Kingston and surrounding communities was hit Tuesday night, according to Police Chief Francis Fagan, when he and his men arrested an East Pierpont Street resident and charged him with possession of dangerous drugs.

Fagan said an unknown quantity of what he believed to be heroin was taken in a raid at the home of Richard Williams, 51 of 21 East Pierpont Street.

Fagan also said instruments for the administration of the narcotic were also found.

Police entered the house searching for at least three handguns that were said to have been taken from a Woodstock residence last month. Fagan said those guns were not found, but handguns thought to have been taken from another residence in the county were found.

Williams was charged with possession of the drugs and instruments. He appeared in City Court this morning and was given a postponement until April 2. He is being held in the County Jail without bail.

Fagan said there was a definite connection between the guns and the presence of narcotics at the address. He said the arrested man served as the "source of supply" for the Kingston area and said investigation into other sources is under way.

Easter Made Happy With Holiday Motifs

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

Use the Easter motif to make foods for children gay and bright, in tune with the season. Pastel colored Easter eggs and chicks made from No-Cook Fondant go with a simple cake baked in a ring mold and frosted with a piquant Fluffy Apricot Frosting.

Easter Egg Nest Cake

Prepare one-half package of cake mix or one-half your favorite layer cake recipe. Bake in a well greased and floured 1-quart ring mold in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 25 or 30 minutes or until it tests done. Cool 10 minutes in pan; loosen with spatula. Remove from pan and complete cooling on cake rack. Spread with Fluffy Apricot Frosting; sprinkle with green tinted shredded coconut. Fill nest with pastel colored eggs made of delicious No Cook Fondant. Shape chicks in a free form style from No Cook Fondant if desired. This cake may also be baked in a square pan (8 x 8 x 2-inch).

Favorite Two-Egg Cake

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
2 egg yolks
2 1/2 cup milk
2 egg whites
1/4 cup light corn syrup

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together; set aside. Blend margarine and sugar. Stir in 1/4 cup corn syrup, vanilla and almond extract. Blend in egg yolks, one at a time. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, blending after each addition. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form when beater is raised. Gradually add 1/4 cup corn syrup, beating until stiff peaks form. Fold into batter. Pour into greased baking pan. Bake in 1 (9 x 3 1/2-inch) tube pan at 350 degrees F. (moderate) oven for 1 hour or in 2 (8-inch) layer cake pans at 375 degrees F. (moderate) oven for 25 to 30 minutes, or until cake springs back when lightly touched.

Fluffy Apricot Frosting

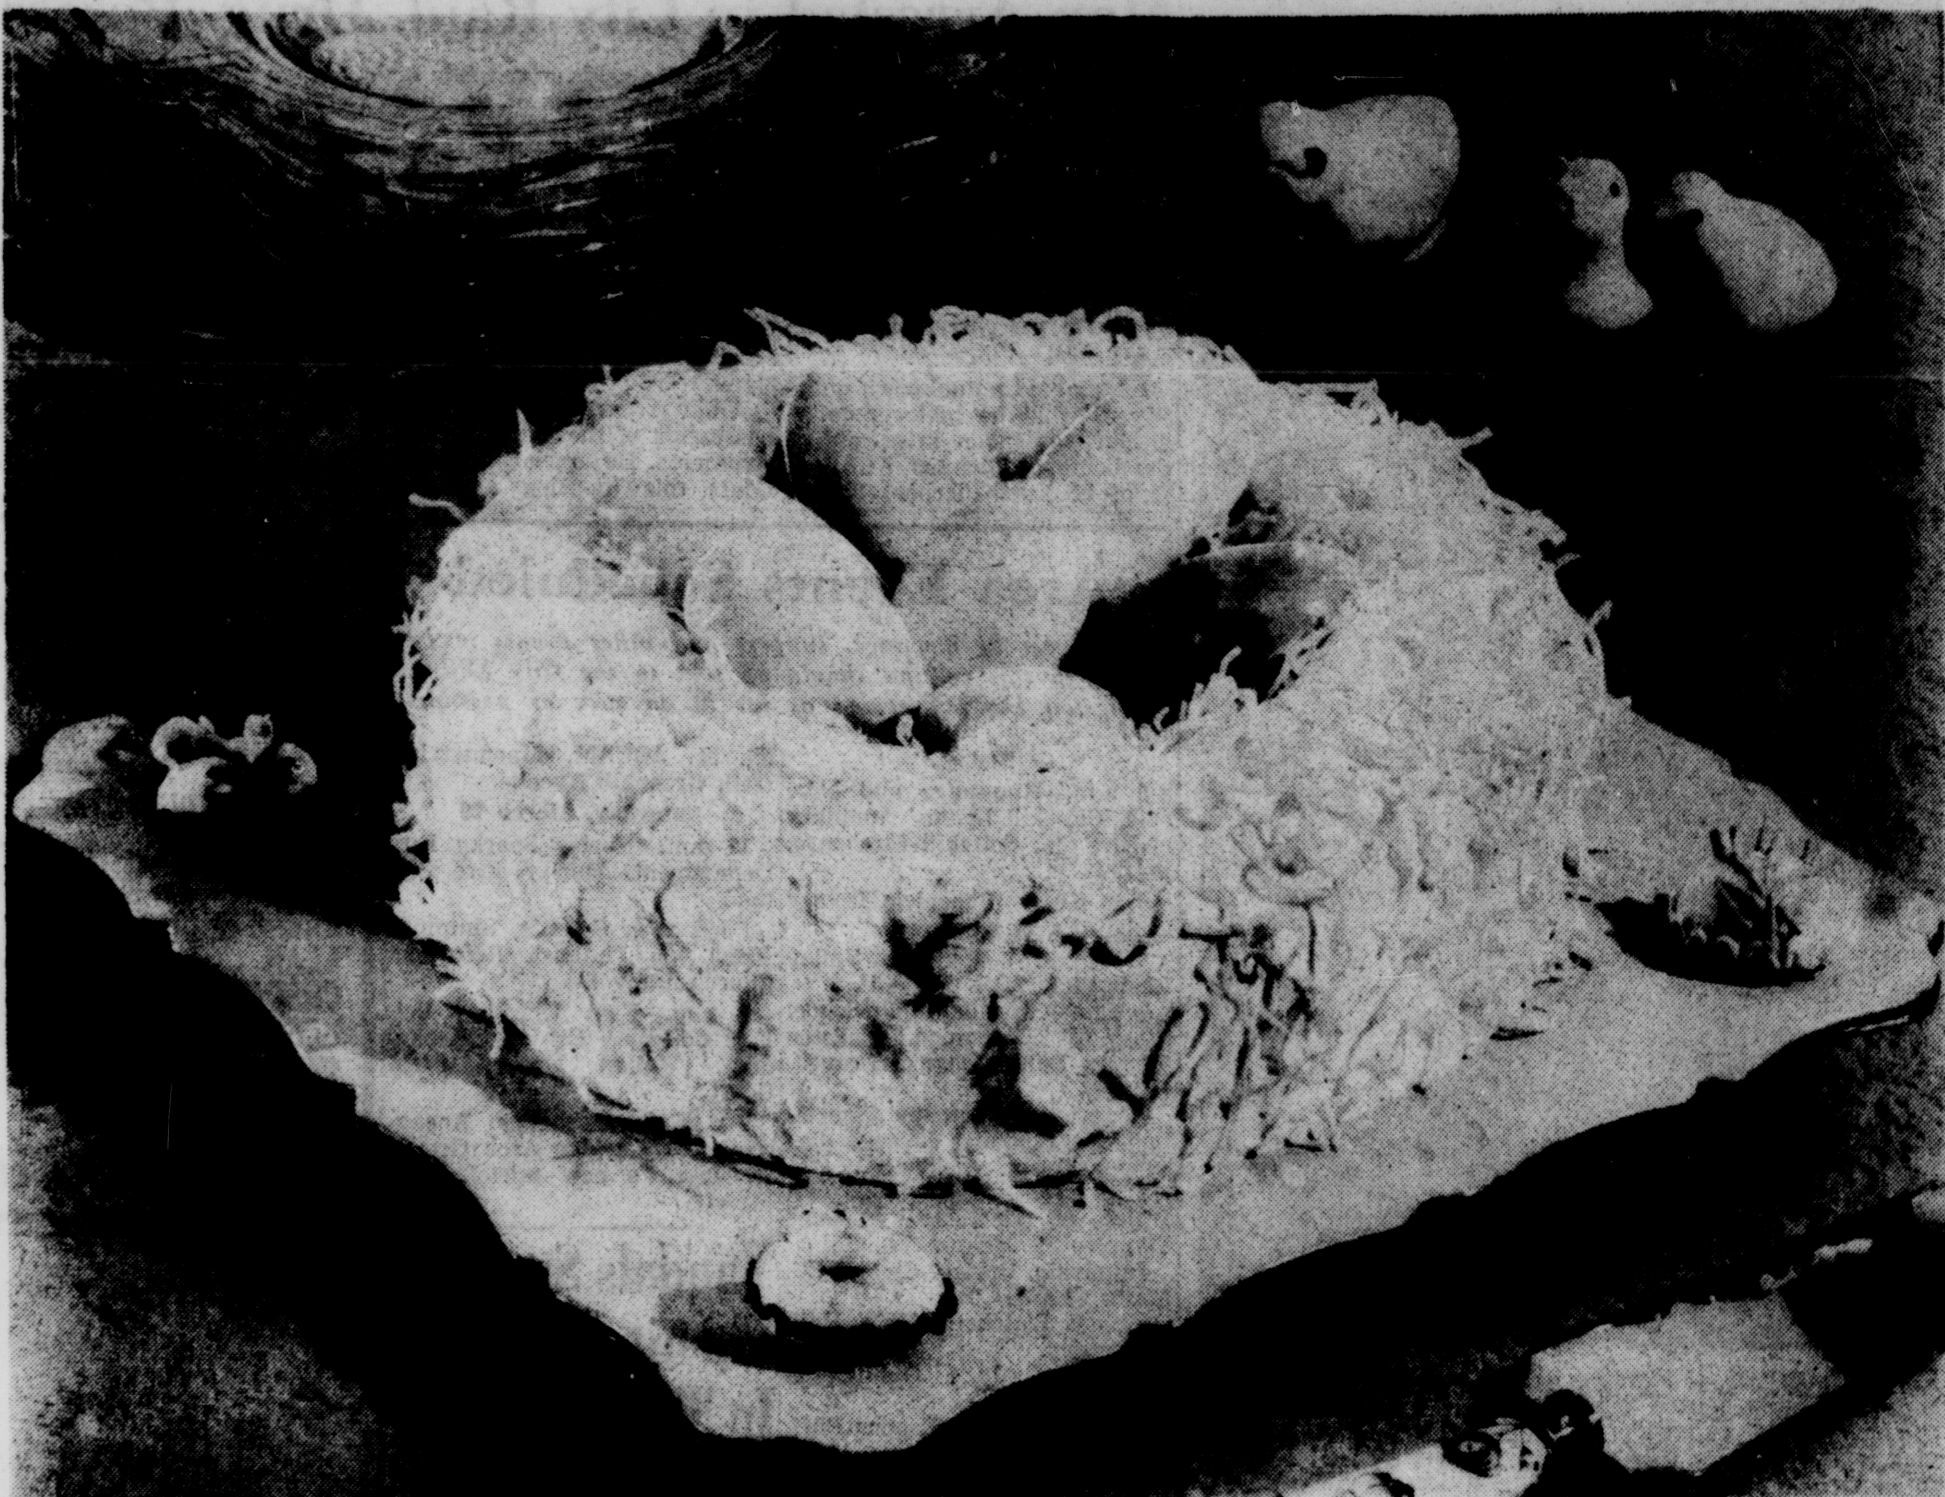

1 egg white
1/4 cup light corn syrup
1/4 cup apricot jam
Few drops almond extract

Beat egg white until stiff but not dry. Combine corn syrup and apricot jam; gradually beat into egg white. Continue beating until frosting stands in firm peaks. Fold in almond extract. Will cover small cake baked in a 1-quart ring mold. Double the recipe when making a standard two-layer cake. Peach jam makes a delicious frosting. Substitute for the apricot jam and use 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract for flavor.

No Cook Fondant

1/2 cup margarine
1/4 cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 1/2 cups sifted confectioners sugar

Mix margarine, light corn syrup, salt and vanilla in large mixing bowl. Add sifted confectioners sugar all at once. Mix all together — first with a spoon and then with hands knead in dry ingredients. Turn onto board and continue kneading until mixture is well blended and smooth. Makes about 1 1/2 pounds candy. Divide and tint into desired shade with vegetable colors. Shape into eggs of various sizes. Store in cool place.

EASTER EGG NEST CAKE — Make a nest for Easter eggs by baking a one layer cake (or half a cake mix) in a 1-quart ring mold. Frost and Sprinkle with coconut.

Seder Meal--Enjoyed By Jewish Families

The Seder Meal, enjoyed by each Jewish family on the first night of Passover, has always enshrined the most precious memories and the most exalting aspirations and hopes of the Jewish people.

Passover is the oldest festival in continuous observance by Jews. It commemorates the exodus under the leadership of Moses from ancient Egypt.

The holiday is the only one on which major changes are required to be made by the housewife in her kitchen. Certain foods are prohibited for the eight-day season and other foods take special storage and preparation.

According to the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, the main aspect in the Passover rules is that leaven, for which the Hebrew word is chometz, of all kinds must be completely eliminated from the home for the duration of the holiday.

Leaven refers to edibles that contain grain and which have been subjected to moisture.

From this ban stems the most evident physical and symbolic change in foods for Passover — the unleavened substitute for bread, the flat square-shaped wafer called the matzo.

THE SEDER TABLE

When the Jewish family gathers for the Seder, they will find a variety of ritual and symbolic objects including five special food preparations on a Seder plate.

CANDLES are lighted by the mother of the house to usher in the festival of the Passover. The benediction which she pronounces over the candles gives a religious meaning to this simple act. An abundance of light symbolizes joy and festivity, and the soft, candle-glow adds an aura of spirituality to the Seder table.

A CUP OF WINE is placed at each table setting. The sanctification of the Holiday is pronounced over the first cup. Three additional cups are drunk during the course of the Seder, making a total of four, to symbolize the four expressions of the Lord's promise to redeem the children of Israel and deliver them from bondage.

THE HAGGADAH (the telling) contains the complete Seder ceremonies in their prescribed order. The first part of the book, concerned mainly with the story of the Jews' deliverance from Egypt, is read before the meal. After dinner follows the second portion consisting of prayers of praise and thanks to the Almighty.

MATZOH represents the "bread of affliction" eaten by the Jews in Egypt and also the bread that had to be baked during their hasty flight when there was no time for leavening. Three matzoh are placed in the Seder tray. Half of the middle one is saved for the dessert and is playfully "stolen" by a child and ransomed for a prize.

THE Z'ROAH, a roasted shank bone, is placed on the Seder tray. It represents the ancient sacrifice of the Paschal lamb which had to be eaten roasted.

THE BEITZAH, a roasted egg placed left of the Z'roah, symbolizes the required offering brought on all festivals in the Temple. The egg, while not itself sacrificed, is used in the Seder as it is the Jewish symbol of mourning (in this case for the loss of the Temple where the sacrifices were brought).

THE MAROR or "bitter herbs" (usually horseradish) is placed in the middle of the tray and symbolizes the Jews' bitter suffering under the Egyptian yoke. Directly below is the Chazereth, another piece of bitter herbs, commemorating the custom of eating Maror sandwiched between two pieces of Matzoh.

THE CHAROSET, placed beneath the Z'roah, is a mixture of chopped apple, nuts, cinnamon and wine designed to look like the mortar used by the Jews in building the palaces and pyramids of Egypt during centuries of forced labor. Before the Maror is eaten, it is dipped into the Charoset.

THE KARPAS, a piece of parsley or lettuce placed to the left of the Charoset, symbolizes the meager diet of the Jews in Egyptian bondage. It is dipped into salt water in remembrance of the tears they shed in their misery. The Karpas also signifies Springtime, the season of Passover.

THE CUP OF ELIJAH, filled with wine, is kept on the table throughout the Seder in the hope that the Prophet Elijah may appear as a messenger of the Almighty and announce the coming of the Messiah. Thus, in the midst of their memories of the past, the Jews look forward to the day of universal peace, love and brotherhood.

In the observant Jewish home, there are two sets of storing, cooking and eating implements for year-round (except Passover) use: one for dairy foods and one for meat foods — and two entirely different sets (again for dairy and for meat) used only during Passover.

The first two and the last two days of Passover are observed as full holidays, except in Israel where only one day of each pair is a holiday. The four intervening days are semi-holidays with activities permitted.

The special dietary rules for Passover become effective about 9:30 a.m. of the day on which the Seder is held. This year the rules go into effect at about 8:30 a.m. on Wednesday, April 2, which is Passover Eve. The first full day of Passover is Thursday, April 3.

By AILEEN CLAIR

Passover (April 3-10 this year) is a holiday commemorating the sparing of Hebrews when God, smiting the first-born of the Egyptians, passed over the houses of the Israelites marked by the blood of a lamb. Many changes in foods have occurred since the first recital of the Kiddush, the benediction which began the Passover meal more than 3,000 years ago.

In fact, Deborah Ross, a dietitian and nutritionist, wraps up nearly 300 recipes in "The Manischewitz Passover Cookbook" (Walker and Co.) to show mama, bubeh (grandmother) or the newest daughter-in-law how to be a gourmet whiz while remaining kosher.

As a helpful guide to the beginner or to a hesitant long-time pro at preparing for Passover, Miss Ross lists the growing number of foods and cleaning supplies labeled "Kosher for Passover."

Relying on her knowledge of what is available for Passover nationally, Miss Ross banishes the Jewish adage, "When in doubt, don't use it," and urges Jewish homemakers to brighten their holiday menus.

The honeyed duck with orange sauce certainly fits the reminder that on Passover, "The head of the house is a king, his wife a queen, and the children princes and princesses."

Honeyed Duck With Orange Sauce

2 large ducks
1/2 cup honey
2 teaspoons paprika
Sprinkle ducks with salt and pepper. Place on a rack in an uncovered roasting pan and place in a 350-degree oven for 2 1/2 hours, turning to brown evenly. Drain off fat. Mix honey with paprika. Brush ducks on all sides with ducks after 15 minutes and brush with remaining honey mixture. Bake until skin is crisp and brown, about 15 minutes longer. Serve with orange sauce. Makes 4 to 8 servings.

100th Anniversary of Order of Eastern Star to Be Celebrated; State Officers to Visit This District

The Order of the Eastern Star of the State of New York will celebrate the Centennial of the founding of the Order 100 years this spring in New York City. An Official Visitation will be held Thursday, April 17, with a dinner and meeting at the W.A.J. Central School, Windham. The meeting is scheduled for 8 and the dinner at 6 p.m. The grand matron, Vera M. Clark (Mrs. Edgar T.) of Portville, and the grand patron, Irving P. Scott of West Babylon, together with the complete staff of state officers will be present for this occasion. The district deputy grand matron, Mrs. Margaret R. Olsen of East Windham and the grand lecturer, Mr. Emil Busch of Greenville, are in charge of the visitation.

In this Centennial Year the grand matron and her staff will emphasize the maintenance of the Home for Aged members and the many benevolent services performed by the Order. She will tell of the special work done with the 21 Veterans' Hospitals throughout N. Y. State and also with the men of the armed services all over the world.

Many projects are under way this year. One of the most important is the expansion program planned for the Eastern Star Home in Oriskany, where excellent care is given the many resident sisters. The building and complete renovation will soon commence there.

Among the fund-raising projects being carried out is the "Old Gold" project. It is hoped that much "Old Gold" might be found and turned in, the proceeds to be used for the 100th Anniversary Building Fund. Members are encouraged to turn in "Old Gold" and add a brick to the new addition at the Home.

VERNA M. CLARK

Each donor will receive a souvenir brick in return. All Eastern Stars are urged to attend the official visitation.

Serviceman's Wife Wishes to Start Waiting Wives Club

Mrs. George L. Wolder of Tillson, wife of a U.S. Marine who has just left for his fourth tour of duty in Vietnam, has announced to The Freeman a desire to instigate a "waiting wives club," composed of area women whose husbands are now in service of their country.

During her husband's last overseas tour, Mrs. Wolder was residing in Miami, Fla., where there was an Overseas Wives Club, sponsored by the American Red Cross. The Club was informal and met once a month with "coffee" in different homes throughout the month.

Election of officers was held every four months and Mrs. Wolder served as vice president for one of those terms.

Mrs. Wolder found the Club "comforting to all the service wives who belonged to it," and requests anyone interested to contact her at PO Box 981, Tillson.

A Reception Following a Bas Mitzvah

Dear Mrs. Post: I am planning a Bas Mitzvah for my daughter. This usually takes place Friday evening at the synagogue, and after services coffee, tea, cakes and candies are served. We are inviting people who will have to travel one or two hours to get here. I would like to serve a supper of cold cuts and salads and then the coffee and cake. How can I word my invitations so that people will know that we are planning on serving them this kind of supper? — Hilda G.

Dear Mrs. G: If you are writing informal invitations, you may simply say "Please stay for a buffet supper after the service." If your invitations are to be engraved, follow the usual "3rd person form" and the last line reads "and at a buffet supper following the ceremony."

Groom Consulted

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to know if it would be appropriate to send a gift to our family physician. He's been a very good and helpful doctor all through the year and I thought this would be a good way to express our appreciation. I've been told it is not appropriate, so never did, yet always felt I wanted to. If it is appropriate, what type of gift would you suggest? — Lois J.

Dear Lois: Good for you! Who in the world would consider it inappropriate to express appreciation by sending a gift? I know of no bars to present-giving when it comes from the heart. The best reason for giving a gift is because you want to.

For your physician, choose something for his office or waiting room—a print for his wall, a handsome ashtray, a magazine rack, book-ends, etc.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen and its answer will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, and don't forget to include your name and address.

New Paltz to Feature Music of India Friday

Ustad Amir Khan, Pandit Uma Shankar, and Shri Ismail Daddoo, will present their third concert in the India Serenade series at State University College, New Paltz, Friday evening at 8:30 p.m. in the Coykendall Science Building.

Ustad Khan, one of the most honored classical singers in India, and Pandit Uma Shankar, sitarist, visiting lecturers at the College this semester, have selected the theme of "Spring" in the music of India for their third public performance. They will be accompanied by tabla player Shri Daddoo who is also teaching at the College this Spring for the Collegium in Indian Music. Sponsoring the third program are Dr. Amiya Chakravarty, honorary member of the College's "Ta-Ki-Ta Club," and the club members. The organization of about sixty members was formed last year to study and arouse interest in the music of India.

Dr. Rosette Renshaw, professor of music in the Division of Area Studies at New Paltz, is in charge of the Collegium. Dr. Renshaw stated that the theme of Spring as a source of musical inspiration is as popular in the culture of India as in Western music, including works by such masters as Vivaldi, Schubert, and Stravinsky as well as latter day stars such as The Beatles. There is no charge for admission to the performance.

Youth Leadership Conference, Sponsored By BPW, Scheduled April 11-13 at Syracuse

The fourth Youth Leadership Conference will be held April 11-13 at Syracuse University, Syracuse, N.Y. Miss Josephine F. Bordonaro of Camillus, N.Y., is the conference chairman. This announcement was made here by Mary Polhemus, president of the Ulster County Business Professional Women's Club.

Sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club of New York State, Inc., in conjunction with Syracuse University, the GOLDEN YEAR CONFERENCE is open to junior and senior high school girls who are career-bound potential leaders. They will be selected by individual BPW Clubs and other community groups throughout New York State.

Representing the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club at the conference will be the winner of a recent club sponsored Teenage Assembly at Kingston High School, Mary Primo. The program was given in cooperation with the New York State Department of Commerce, Woman's Program. Miss Primo was the winner of a jingle contest. She will be accompanied to the BPW conference by Mrs. Barbara Read, BPW chairman, personal development committee.

The weekend will bring to these future leaders a well-rounded program consisting of panel presentations and prominent guest speakers on women's role in the economy — leadership techniques, moral and ethical values, and leadership of women in community, volunteer work, cultural affairs and politics. The girls will stay in the Hotel Syracuse with all activities on the University campus.

On Friday evening the orientation and program on "leadership qualities" will be conducted by Dr. Augustine A. Root, Syracuse University. Dr. Root is a licensed professional engineer and holds a PhD in Psychology. Another participant will be Miss Valerie Lloyd, the Jamesville-Dewitt senior who represented Central New York in the Miss Teenage America Pageant in Fort Worth, Texas in November 1968.

The Saturday morning session will begin at 9:15. Thomas W. Higgins, president of the Merchants National Bank, Syracuse, N. Y., will be the keynote speaker. A question period will follow his address.

The girls will be taken on a tour of the campus. After a luncheon, break, the group will convene for a panel discussion on "Women's Leadership Role." The moderator will be Mrs. Richard Mattis, personal development chairman of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Watertown.

N. Y. Panelists will be Mrs. Sally Bender, a journalist with the Women's Unit in New York City; Miss Dora Lee Dauma, a speech professor at SUNY in Oswego; Mrs. Mildred C. Past, administrative assistant for the Syracuse Agency of Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company. After the panel discussion, the participants will be organized into discussion groups.

A Saturday evening dinner and program have been planned by the Syracuse University students. This will give the girls a taste of campus life.

On Sunday the final session will begin at 9:30 a.m. with Mrs. Flora Babalola, librarian from Nigeria, speaking on "Leadership of Women in Emerging Nations." A discussion period will be held after this session.

Provisions have been made for the girls to attend religious services at the conclusion of the conference Sunday morning.

In observance of the 50th birthday of the Business and Professional Women's Club of New York State, Inc., (1919-1969) a book, "All Girls," by E. Marie Carter, will be given to the 50th girl who registers at the Golden Year Youth Leadership Conference. Each teenage participant will receive a "packet" of literature giving pointers relative to entering the business world.

Women Coordinate Activities

The Ulster County Women's Republican Club will be coordinating its campaign activities with two other GOP women's clubs in the county — the clubs in the Towns of Shawangunk and Warwarsing.

Mrs. Robert Davidson, first vice president of the Ulster County club, will attend all meetings of the branch clubs with return visits will be made by members of the other clubs as well.

At a meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club this month, Mrs. Davidson stated this new arrangement of cooperation will yield better working conditions for the upcoming campaign.

Lincoln Day dinner reports were also given at the March meeting conducted by Mrs. Thomas Hanrahan, president.

On April 14-17, the 17th Annual Republican Women's Conference, sponsored by the Women's Division of the Republican National Committee, will be held at the Sheraton Park Hotel in Washington, D.C. Representing Ulster County will be club president Mrs. Hanrahan. Reservations may be made until March 31 by GOP woman interesting in attending simply by contacting any club officer.

Mrs. Hanrahan has been designated also by the club to represent it at the annual meeting of the Third Judicial District, Thru-Way Motor Inn, Albany, on May 8. A new director for the third district will be elected at that time.

A fun and social evening sponsored by the City of Kingston Finance Committee is being planned with co-chairmen Mrs. Albert Kurdt and Mrs. William Krum. Tickets are now available from all Kingston GOP committeemen.

Mrs. Raymond LeFever, GOP vice chairman, reviewed her trip to Washington for the inauguration of President Nixon, and later in the evening, Thomas Mayone, special investigator for the District Attorney's office, showed a film on how juries are selected.

The next business meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club will be held on Thursday, April 24.

A 'Happy Ending' to Demolition Project

Mrs. Walter Stolte, chairman of the public affairs department of the Woman's Club of Saugerties, has announced the successful conclusion of one of the department's earliest and most important projects — the demolition of the old Exquisite Form Industries building on Route 9W in Saugerties.

Mrs. Joseph Sullivan, department chairman in 1967, with her committee wrote the first letter to the president of Exquisite Form Industries, Inc. in April, 1967, asking that the building be demolished. It was not only an eyesore but its worsening condition made it a hazard as well. Since no reply was received, the committee wrote again, this time including photographs of the property taken by committee member Mrs. Robert Blanchard. Mrs. Sullivan was then contacted by the company, who agreed that demolition was advisable and that if she could find a local contractor at a mutually agreeable price, the company would be financially responsible. Mrs. Sullivan contacted several Saugerties Town Officials for advice, including Mayor Cornelius Cox and Town Supervisor Michael Schovel. Also, a local businessman offered assistance in arranging for a contractor. Demolition of the building and clearing of the land was finally started on March 23, 1969, by the A. J. Scarselli Construction Co. of Saugerties.

Savino's Eliminate Aero Lakers, 105 to 94

GOALWARD BOUND — Boston's John Havlicek pulls away from a clutching Hal Greer and goes past Philadelphia's Billy Cunningham (32) to score two of his 23 first half points

Wednesday in Philadelphia, where the 76ers and Celtics met in the first game of a best of 7 Eastern Division semi final series. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Celts Top 76ers in Opener; Frisco Beats Lakers, 99-94

Russell, Havlicek Are Stars

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — With John Havlicek providing the offensive spark and player-coach Bill Russell starring on defense, the Boston Celtics defeated the Philadelphia 76ers 114-110 Wednesday night in the opening round of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The best-of-seven semifinal series in the Eastern Division resumes Friday in Boston.

Havlicek scored 35 points to lead Boston and Russell blocked 12 shots, pulled down 15 rebounds and handed off 8 assists.

Boston built a 17-point lead in the third quarter and held off 76er rallies which cut the deficit to six points at 77-71 with 2:38 remaining in the period. Boston bounced back for nine straight points and an 86-71 margin. The third period ended with the Celtics on top 86-73.

Philadelphia made another run, pulling to within six points at 88-82 with 9:56 remaining. Havlicek and Larry Siegfried supplied the important points as Boston built its lead back to 98-86 with 6:55 to go. Philadelphia never got closer than eight points the rest of the way.

Boston led 60-49 at halftime and held a 33-27 lead after one quarter.

Sam Jones added 20 points for the Celtics and Bill Cunningham led Philadelphia with 29 points and 17 rebounds. Darrall Imhoff scored 20 points and pulled down 19 rebounds for the 76ers.

Cal Murphy, Rinka Head 'Small Five'

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two little men who pour in points faster than most of basketball's giants head United Press International's 21st annual "Small America" team selected Thursday from a list of collegians no taller than 5-10.

Calvin Murphy, Niagara's 5-10 scoring wizard who made the authentic All-America for the second straight year in competition with players of all heights, again leads the small man's team and is the only repeater. He was the third leading scorer in major college ranks with a 32.7 average.

But up from last year's second team "Small America" comes 5-9 John Rinka of Kenyon College with an even higher scoring average than Murphy's. Rinka popped 'em in at the rate of 33.9 points per game.

Named to the 1969 "Small America" with those two little sharpshooters were Greg Carney (5-9) of Wichita State, Greg Williams (5-9) of Rice and Dick DeVenzio (5-10) of Duke.

Second team: Dave Lundstrom (5-10) of Bradley, Gordon Tope (5-10) of Colorado, Charley Criss (5-8) of New Mexico State, Steve Bilsky (5-10) of Pennsylvania and Petie Gipson (5-7) of New Mexico.

Bill Keller, Purdue's great little backcourt man who made the "Small America" two years ago, again was eliminated when Purdue officially listed him at 5-10 1/2—a shade over the height limit.

Murphy, hailed as one of the finest shooters in history, tailed off slightly from his 38 point average of a year ago but he led a mediocre Niagara team in every game with a high of 68 points against Syracuse early in the season.

Rinka, who polled more votes than any player selected on UPI's earlier college division All-America, had three big nights with 48 or more points, including 55 against Tennessee State and 51 against Wilmington.

Jerry West, Jeff Mullins Each Hit 36

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors jumped off to a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven playoff series with the Los Angeles Lakers with a 99-94 victory.

The Warriors took advantage of cold-shooting by the National Basketball Association Western Division champions, exemplified by all-pro Elgin Baylor's measly 12 points and Wilt Chamberlain's 11.

Joe Ellis meshed a 25-foot jumper with 2:47 to play to put San Francisco in front to stay in the Wednesday night encounter. Rudy LaRusso contributed five points from then on to top off the triumph.

The two teams clash again Friday night at the Forum before traveling to San Francisco.

Jerry West of Los Angeles and Jeff Mullins of the Warriors played to a standoff in the heralded duel at the guard spot, each tanking 36 points. Mullins was 16 for 29 and West 13 for 29 from the field.

"I won't be satisfied with a split," said coach George Lee of the Warriors after the contest. "We want to win both of the games down here."

Lee praised the play of his reserves, but added he thought his club could play better.

Coach Bill Van Breda Kolff of the Lakers blamed the cold shooting and failure to move the ball quickly for the defeat.

The Lakers shot a chilly 35 per cent.

West rallied the Lakers from a 10-point disadvantage to a 47-47 halftime tie and then again after San Francisco opened a 10-point lead in the third quarter.

But after the Lakers pulled to a 89-83 lead, San Francisco sank 11 straight points to move in front.

Aero Lake Airport's bid for the 1969 Poughkeepsie YMCA-Hudson Valley basketball title opened and closed in one Wednesday night.

Despite a heroic 41-point performance by Charlie Brown, the waspish sharpshooter from New Jersey, the high-powered Kingston squad bowed to Savino's Apparel of Poughkeepsie, 105-94, in the first major upset of the tournament.

The Lakers were runnersup to the champion Pine Plains Bombardiers and No. 2 seeded team in this year's tourney.

Grady O'Malley's basket in the last 18 seconds of play gave Clarkstown Recs of Rockland county an 81-80 squeaker over Felicello Pipers, the tournament-hardened team from Marlboro.

Brown, who was stone cold in his Kingston Tournament debut last Sunday night, did an about face Wednesday night as he drilled the Laker's first 10 points to build up a 10-6 lead for the Colonial city entry.

Jumpin' Joe Uhl, meanwhile, shackled by early fouls, sat out a good part of the game and finished with a meagre 15 points. Bill Bolnes and Mel Williams each potted 14 for the losers.

John Osborne took scoring honors for Savino's with 31 points and the Harlem Wizards tandem of Hank Corley (25) and Hank Pedro (26) accounted for 51 of the Savino markers.

Aero Lake led 22-19 at the quarter mark but ran into foul trouble in the second quarter and Savino's cashed in on seven straight 1-an-1 situations for 14 straight free throw points. Overall, they had 31 of 41 and that was part of the story of the Lakers' defeat.

Uhl picked up his third foul with 5:08 left in the second quarter and sat out the rest of the half.

Savino's were tough on both ends of the boards and scored heavily off offensive rebounds in close, as they ran past the Lakers 36-16 in the second stanza to build up a commanding 55-38 halftime lead.

Brown's spectacular 70-per cent accuracy kept Aero Lake in the ball game until 4:53 mark of the second period. With score 39-29 against them, Savino's crushed the Kingstonians with a 26-8 spree engineered by Corley and Pedro.

The ball game was never close after that. Aero Lake narrowed the gap to 94-87 with 1:23 left. Uhl had fouled out with 5:40 still left to play.

Savino's established themselves as a top threat to defending champion Pine Plains with their brilliant shooting and rebounding strength against the Lakers, who sorely missed Jerry Moss and Leon Hanna off the boards.

O'Malley, who dunked the winning deuce, finished with 18 points for Clarkstown. Al Orlando led the squad with 20 and Tony Toscano had 15.

Veteran Jim Fraley paced the Pipers with 23 points. Richie Dyer, ex-N.Y.U. cager, hit 18 and Ed Cook had 15.

Hayes Bit Unhappy About MVP Award

HOUSTON (UPI) — Elvin Hayes, who led the NBA in scoring this year as a rookie for the San Diego Rockets, said Wednesday eastern sports writers made Wesley Unseld the most valuable player "to keep me from getting it."

Hayes told a Houston radio station announcer Unseld did not deserve the most valuable player award. Hayes was in Atlanta where his team was preparing for a playoff series.

Unseld, also a rookie who played his college ball at Louisville, played on a Baltimore Bullets team which won the Eastern Division championship this year after finishing in last place in 1968.

Hayes said Unseld "would probably win rookie of the year honors in addition to his MVP award."

"But, I got the scoring championship and I think that is more important than all those other titles," he said.

Hayes played his college ball with the University of Houston, one of only two teams to defeat UCLA during the three-year reign of Lew Alcindor.

"If anyone knows basketball, they know his (Unseld's) ability," Hayes reportedly told station KTRH.

Murcer's Hot Bat Brings Yank Raves

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Murcer has come marching home again and the New York Yankees are shouting hurrah, hurrah.

Murcer is the same kid who was getting the raves two years ago in spring training when the

New York Yankees had him ticketed to fill their shortstop void. But the 20-year-old infielder wound up playing soldier for the U.S. Army instead for the next two years.

Now he is back and nothing has changed, except his position. Murcer now is playing

Hard Work Is Ahead For RVC Trackmen

By JIM MASSA

Desire and hard work face the Rondout Valley Central School's track team members as they get ready for the 1969 season.

With a 2-4 record in league competition, and 2-6 overall last year, the Ganders will have to come on strong to better that this year. The reason for this expectation is based on the fact that Rondout has only one strong competitor from last year among the 13 returnees.

He is James Rowe, who holds the high jump record for the school at 5 foot 6. He also competes in the high hurdles, and triple jump.

Hopefuls that Rondout is counting on to develop quickly this year are the following returnees:

Richard Lisle, Pat Lapiano and George Smith in the mile run; Gary Stewart and James Lapiano in the two-mile run;

Ed Delessio and Carl Myers will both compete in the shot put and discus events.

Tom Craig heads up the 220 and broad jump, while Steve Davis runs the 440, Harry Gulbrandson and Pat Lapiano will work the pole vault. Gulbrandson also runs in the hurdles.

Rounding out the team's returnees will be Allen Elston, who competes in the high and triple jumps, Griffin Graham heads the sprint events.

Newcomers who will be with the team this year and expected to help are: Chris Wilane, Kent Busnell, Dale Wade, Leland Johnson, Aaron Randall, Tim Muller, Joe Clark, Robert Graham and Charles Groeters.

Tyro Rallies Award Trophies

POUGHKEEPSIE Rosalie and Don Fegan, riding a Dodge Dart, places first in the third and last of the 1969 Tyro Tour series of rallies sponsored by the Poughkeepsie Sports Car Club.

Al Roden and Nadine Simmons placed second in a Volvo and Paul Mills and Joe Gavis were third in their Corvair.

Trophies for the eight drivers with the highest total of points for the series were awarded in the following order: David Koehler, first; Rosalie Fegan, Marjorie Moulton, Alison Craig, Al Roden, Richard Muollo, Mary King, Paul Mills.

Eight navigator trophies went to: Steve Siktberg, Don Fegan, Judy Arvgherinos, Cathy Dwyer, Russ Frank, Nadine Simmons, Dave King and Joe Gavis.

Rondout Girls UCAL Champs

Rondout Valley Central High School's girls varsity basketball team won the Ulster County Athletic League championship defeating the New Paltz High school girls 36-16 in the Pine Bush High school gym.

Rondout had an overall 4-1 record this season, their loss was to New Paltz by one point.

Coach Gergette Dunn said that the victory was especially sweet since Rondout has reached the finals four straight years and lost the three previous play-offs by only one and two points. The twenty point margin was thus extremely satisfying to the girls, some who have played for four years.

The members of the championship team are: Georgiana Gantner (Captain), Lana Slater, Ellen Green, Nadine Schreiber, Marianne Novarra, Pat Mills, Charlene Rowe, Marie Mahoney and Gwynedd Robertshaw.

Greenberg Says Sale of 'Pride' Is 'Premature'

MONTICELLO Leon Greenberg, president and general manager of Monticello Raceway and attorney for the owners of Nevele Pride, Harness Horse of the Year for the past two seasons, said Wednesday, that reports of a possible sale of the great trotter later this week are, "very premature."

It had been rumored earlier that the Pride would be sold this week for $3 million. Castle-ton Farms of Lexington, Ky., and a millionaire standardbred owner Norman S. Woolworth of New Canaan, Conn. and New York City were prospective buyers.

Greenberg stated: "It is much too early to say whether or not the Pride will be sold. Negotiations are going on, but they will not be completed this week."

The four-year-old trotting stallion, owned by Nevele Acres and Louis Resnick of Ellenville, has earned $650,363 in two seasons of racing. The Pride, trained and driven by Stanley Dancer, won 26 of 29 races as a two-year-old and became the first juvenile trotter to be selected "Harness Horse of the Year."

third base, but the cheers still remain, particularly after he rapped his 21st and 22nd hits of the spring Wednesday in the Yankees 7-2 exhibition victory over Detroit.

Several other rookies also had hot hands as Larry Hise slugged two three-run homers and Ron Stone rapped a homer, two doubles and a single in Philadelphia's 11-1 rout of Houston. Wayne Garrett slugged two solo homers for the New York Mets in a 6-3 decision over Cincinnati, and Rudy May hurled seven shutout innings as California blasted Oakland 9-3.

In other games, Minnesota edged Los Angeles 4-3, the Chicago White Sox nipped Pittsburgh 2-1, St. Louis tripped Boston 2-1, Baltimore beat Washington 3-2, the Chicago Cubs blasted Cleveland 10-0 and San Francisco outslugged Seattle 7-5.

Rain canceled Kansas City's game against Atlanta and Montreal's contest with the Yankees B team.

In the two years Murcer was gone, the Yankees tried several shortstop before settling on Tom Tresh, but Murcer hasn't let that bother him. He has all but taken the third base job from incumbent Bob Cox after slugging his fourth spring homer and a double against the Tigers. "It's a lot different now than when I was here in 1966," said Murcer now 22. "Maybe I was too young then and couldn't believe I was here. Now I feel like a vet."

"I've never had any worries about my hitting. That's always been the best part of my game."

Another rookie, pitcher Bill Burbach, pitched the first six innings and allowed just one hit for the Yanks.

Chris Short allowed one run and five hits in six innings for the Phillies. Hise leads the Phillies with three homers and 14 runs batted in while Stone is moving along with a .488 average.

Garrett, trying for a utility spot on the Mets' roster, backed up the six-inning shutout pitching of Jim McAndrews. Alex Johnson's three-run homer in the eighth accounted for Cincinnati's runs.

May, a 24-year-old southpaw who the Angels got for Bo Belinsky in 1964, virtually clinched a spot in the rotation while teammate Vic Davallio drove in four runs.

Ted Uhlaender capped a three-run ninth inning with a two-run single for Minnesota's victory, and the White Sox scored twice in the first inning on two hits, a passed ball and a walk.

St. Louis won on run-scoring doubles by Vada Pinson and Tim McCarver in the fourth inning, and Baltimore scored twice in the eighth on rookie Bobby Floyd's single and an error to overcome Frank Howard's first spring homer for the Senators.

Ken Holtzman, backed by 16 hits and a six-run fourth inning against Sam McDowell, yielded only three hits in seven innings for the Cubs. Juan Marichal picked up San Francisco's victory, although he allowed five hits and four runs in seven innings.

Featured Purse To John Craig

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Craig sustained a long stretch drive to win the $5,000 pacing feature by a nose Wednesday night at Roosevelt Raceway.

The seven-year-old stepped the mile in 2:04 4/5, driven by John Chapman. Second was Brown Smoke, followed by Kammy's A. Oakley. Favored in the betting, John Craig paid $6.20, $3.60 and $3.40. At Batavia Downs the featured eighth race conditioned pace was won by Reese Rodney in 2:11 4/5 over Fine L. Touch and Sonic Star. The winner, driven by Maurice Bergeron, paid $7.40, $3.80 and $2.60. Fine L. Touch crossed the finish line first, but was placed second after breaking at the finish.

Leafs Throw Damper on the Party

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Just as the Montreal Canadiens were getting ready to celebrate, the Toronto Maple Leafs threw a damper . . . and six goals . . . on the party.

The Canadiens, needing a victory to clinch the National Hockey League's East Division championship, hopped into a 3-0 lead in the first 13 minutes of play Wednesday night and then watched Toronto steady the celebration with a rally that produced six goals and a 6-4 victory.

The Montreal loss kept Boston's chances alive for catching the Canadiens. The second-place Bruins must sweep their three remaining games—including two against Montreal—to wipe out the four-point Canadiens' lead.

Elsewhere Wednesday night, Chicago whipped New York 6-4, Pittsburgh rapped Los Angeles 8-4 and St. Louis turned back Oakland 5-3.

Floyd Smith and Mike Walton scored the third-period goals that snapped a 4-4 tie and carried the Maple Leafs past Montreal. Early goals by Henri Richard, Ralph Backstrom and John Ferguson had built a 3-0 Canadian edge.

Then Ron Ellis, Norm Ullman and Dave Keon tied it for the Leafs. Jacques Lemaire of Montreal and Jim Dorey of Toronto swapped goals 18 seconds apart in the final minute of the second period to preserve the tie. Then Smith and Walton broke it.

The victory moved the Division cellar, won its fourth straight with eight different players scoring against Los Angeles. Rookies Doug Barrie and Ron Snell had two of the Penguin goals. Gary Croteau and Ed Joyal had two apiece for the Kings.

Red Berenson powered St. Louis with a pair of goals—his 34th and 35th of the season—as the Blues bunched all five goals in the second period on 19 shots.

Ted Hampson tallied twice for Oakland in the third period, boosting his season's output to 26 goals.

U.S. Team Consistent

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The United States team in the world Ice Hockey championships remained consistent Wednesday—it lost for the eighth consecutive time, dropping a 6-2 decision to Czechoslovakia.

The win moved the Czechs back into a tie for first place in the point standing. The Czechs and Russia, both 7-1 in the tourney, have 14 points each but the Czechs have the edge since they beat Russia 2-0 in the first meeting of the two clubs. Russia beat Finland 7-3 in the other game Wednesday.

The Czechs took a 2-0 lead at the end of the first period but Larry Pleau of the U.S. scored with just 28 seconds gone in the second period to put the Americans back into the game. Ron Nasland assisted on the goal.

That was as close as the Americans got as Josef Cerny scored at 5:38 of the period and Frantisek Popisil added the Czechs' fourth goal with just eight seconds remaining in the third.

The Czechs built the lead to 6-1 in the third period before Larry Skime added the final U.S. goal just 12 seconds before the end of the contest on an assist by Tim Sheehy.

Mike Curran was in the nets for the Americans and made 21 saves in the first period, nine in the second and 15 in the third for a total of 45.

The Czech goalie, Marisolav Lackey, had to make only four saves in the final period as the winners were in control.

The Czech win was never in doubt.

The Czechs skated better, showed better team play and really put the Americans under the thumb in the powerplay.

U.S. playing Coach John Mayasich, a standout man in the American defense in previous games, rested Wednesday night, except for one shift late in the third period when the Americans were two men short.

Ellenville Veterans Set to Open

By MORT LAFFIN

ELLENVILLE
Ellenville High School's Baseball Coach Dick Frank, may well be the envy of all the other coaches in the DUSO Village League this season. Coach Frank has the happy prospect of finding room on the starting nine for 15 returning veterans, 13 of them seniors, from last year's team that tied Monticello for the second-place finish behind Liberty. Only one boy, Bob Seigel, was lost to graduation and he wasn't a starter.

The Blue Devils posted a 4-4 record in league play and a 7-8 overall.

Hornbeck to Pitch

Bruce Hornbeck leads the returnees this season. Hornbeck, one of the best hurlers in the league last season, is expected to take up where he left off as the mainstay of the staff. William Baglietier, Paul Rabinowitz and Arthur Kinberg, figure to give Hornbeck any needed support.

Handling Hornbeck's tosses will be either Doug Maier or Gary Sinick. The starting nod will go to the one who displays the better defensive tools.

Rabinowitz and Bill Baglietier figure to be platooned at the first sack when they are not pitching. Steve Hayden, a .310 hitter last year will open at second base. Dave Baglietier and Judgen Wende, returning from an illness that kept him out of action, are vying for the shortstop position. Dave Sinick and Joe Jeszeck are set at third.

Houck in Outfield

The outfield will be led by power-hitter Terry Houck, (pronounced Houk) in left field. Houck slapped the horsehide for a whopping .376 average. Ron Koss will be in center field. Koss hit .323. Others in the outfield are Arnold Koss and Glenn Levith.

When asked how he would fare this season, Coach Frank said: "We appear to have the horses and I see a good season ahead. We expect a lot from our boys and if we don't win, we'll be very disappointed."

Judge Hofheinz Man of His Word May Have Gone Little Too Far

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Judge Roy Hofheinz is a man of his word. Yes, sir.

The last time we met, the tough, hard-minded Houston Astros' owner gave me his personal assurance the shaving cream would hit the fiddle if he wasn't satisfied with Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's decision and he kept his word.

The judge wasn't at all happy with the commissioner's ruling regarding the Houston-Montreal squabble over Rusty Staub and the latter hit the stridivarius precisely as promised.

Hofheinz didn't hold back one bit. He charged Kuhn, rather recklessly, I thought, with the type dereliction never lodged against even William D. Eckert (remember him?) and then exercised his inalienable right as a red-blooded American citizen by suing the Montreal club to void the deal and collect at least $10,000 in damages.

Hofheinz subsequently supplied an apology to Kuhn Wednesday upon being asked for one, but he made no mention of canceling his law suit.

Should the reserve clause, baseball's old can of worms, somehow be overturned in the proceedings, well, that's tough oatmeal, says the judge, who also says now that Donn Clendenon has retired, he's missing a ballplayer and he can show you in the book where he has one coming by all rights.

The judge reminds me of some drivers I've seen on the highways. They know they have the right of way and positively insist on it. Regardless what. As a matter of record, the National Safety Council lists this particular form of stubbornness as one of the leading causes of highway fatalities.

Possibly another fatality may result here only in this case it wouldn't be an accident. It seems to me there are enough people going around saying baseball is dying without Hofheinz doing what he can to kill it outright. Okay, so he's out a player and I feel for him but other clubs have lost players also without declaring a national emergency. Montreal lost Larry Jackson and didn't start burning all the papers in its office. Granted, Staub might mean more to Houston than Jackson does to Montreal. Hofheinz still has no call to degrade the commissioner the way he did and holler injustice.

The judge suffers from a poor memory. He should remember Montreal's Expos came into being as an expansion club only because he was dead set against the establishment of a major league franchise in Dallas-Fort Worth and had he not objected so much to that Montreal wouldn't be in the National League today.

Hofheinz also conveniently forgets he is part of a 24-man group of owners and presumably all 24 are dedicated to the betterment of baseball. Bear in mind that word presumably. It gets a big laugh in some quarters.

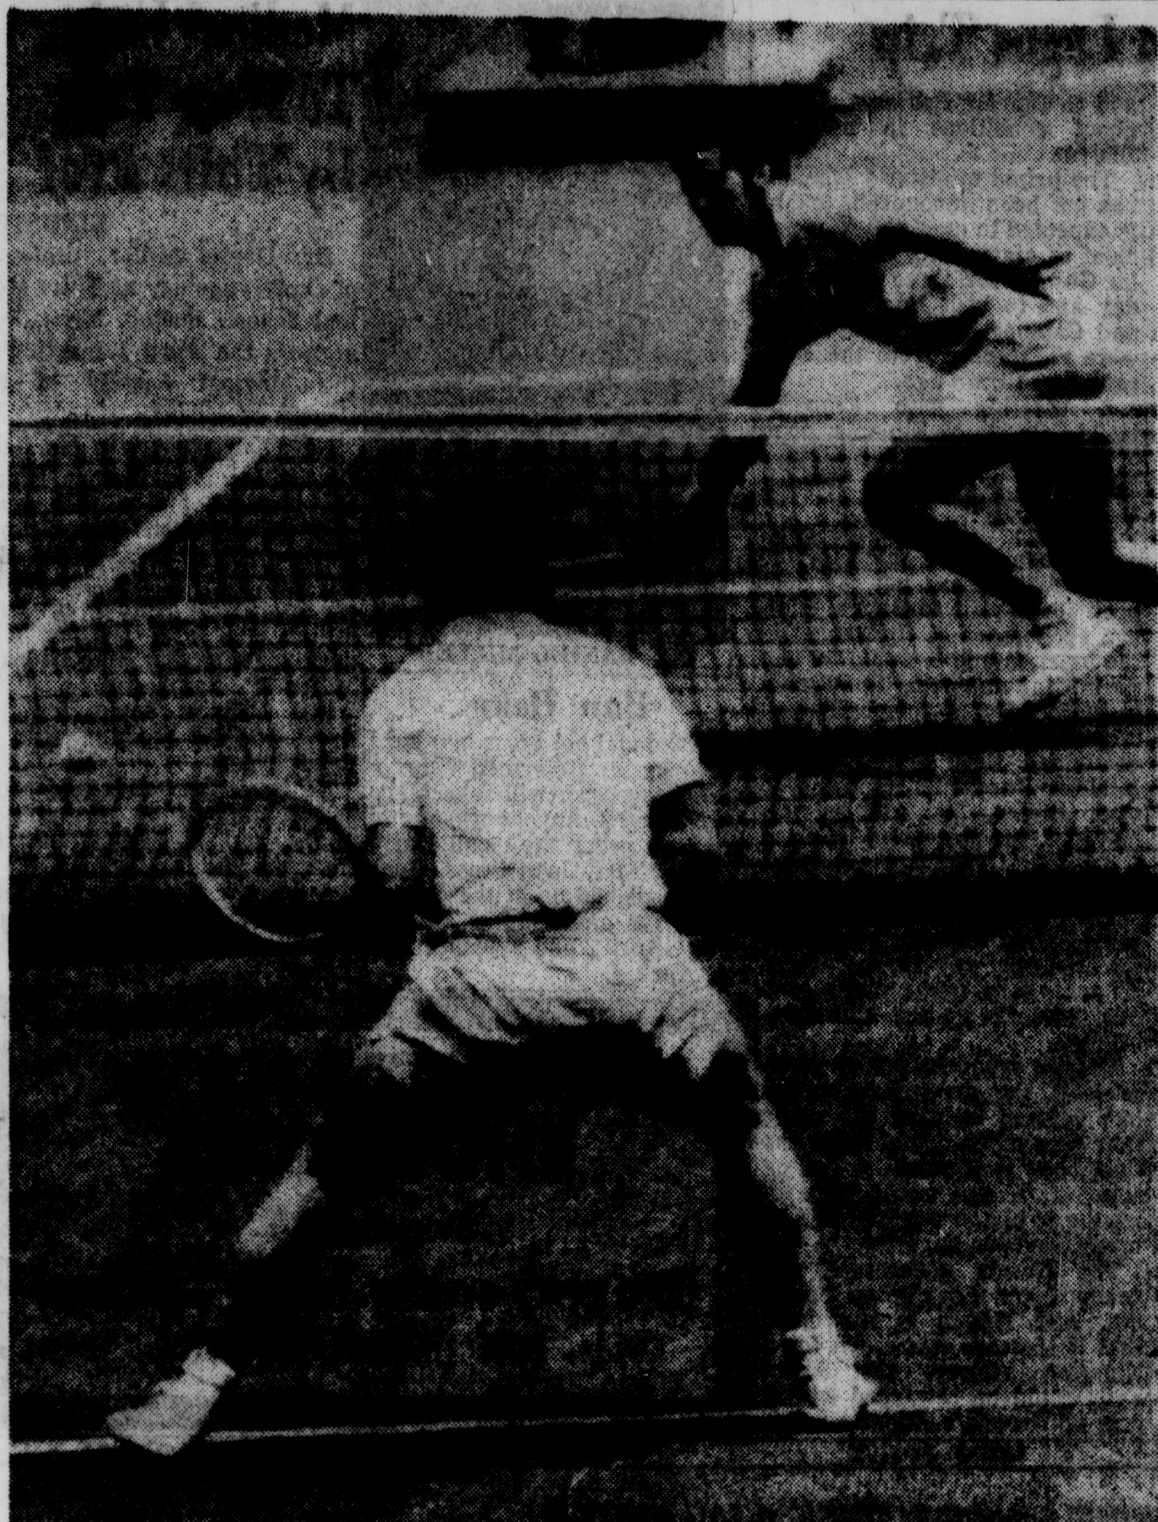

By now the judge probably has an idea his fellow owners are not especially enchanted with his latest course of action. In case there's any doubt in his mind, maybe he'd be interested in what one of them has to say.

"Judge Hofheinz is a partner of mine," says Francis L. Dale, the young, aggressive president of the Cincinnati Reds. "When we go to his park we get a return for that and vice versa. Like any partnership, one partner can hurt or help the other. I'd like to remind the judge that when we sat in Miami Beach and elected a commissioner unanimously, and that word is important, we also gave him full authority of the office."

Dale let that sink in a moment and went on. "The rules administered over by the commissioner constitute a partnership agreement. All of us agreed to abide by this agreement which says in no uncertain terms the commissioner of baseball can order me as an owner to do something I may not want to do if he considers it in the best interest of baseball. Please understand I don't challenge the judge's claim. He has a right to make one but I think he's in the wrong courtroom. I think he should be in the commissioner's waiting room instead. Didn't the commissioner say he'd let the two clubs try to work out the problem and if they couldn't settle it, he would? That was my understanding."

Dale says on a personal basis he likes Hofheinz and that the judge has gone out of his way to be gracious and to help him. "I'd call him a friend", says the Cincy prexy.

"But he's also a partner of mine and he's trying to hurt my business."

Open Tennis Play

Roche and Gonzales In Quarter Finals

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tony Roche of Australia, gaining acceptance as the world's finest tennis player, and Pancho Gonzalez of the United States, who ruled the courts for more than a decade, meet tonight in the quarter finals of the $25,000 Madison Square Garden Challenge Trophy Open.

It is a rubber match for the 23-year-old Aussie, seeded first in the 32-man field, and the 40-year-old Gonzalez, who is unseeded. In the U.S. Open at Forest Hills last September, Pancho spilled Roche in straight sets. In their second meeting, in an all pro Garden event in November, Roche retaliated with a similar victory.

Gonzalez gained the round of eight Wednesday night by routing Mark Cox of England, a blond 24-year-old who had stunned Pancho last spring in England in the first open tennis event ever held. Employing the strategy and technique of his more than 20 years on the court, Gonzalez swept to 6-4, 6-1 victory in little more than half an hour.

Roche advanced with equal ease, toying with Jim Osborne of Honolulu, 6-3, 6-3.

Slate 37 Games, Forty-six Teams On Football TV

NEW YORK (UPI)—A television schedule featuring 37 games—including four night contests—involving 46 teams was announced Wednesday for this fall's college football season by ABC-TV sports.

There will be two more games on TV than last year although the total of 11 national telecasts remains the same.

The wild card game innovation, first used last season, will be repeated in 1969 with ABC picking a game in November—probably Nov. 15—for national TV. Last year's "wild card game" was Notre Dame-Southern California and drew the largest viewing audience of any regular season game, college or pro.

Defending national champion Ohio State will probably be seen three times this year. The Buckeyes' game at Northwestern on Nov. 1 is listed for regional TV.

The Bucks' game against Purdue on Nov. 15 will probably be the "wild card" game in a doubleheader with Notre Dame playing Georgia Tech that night. Ohio State's final regular season game on Nov. 22 against Michigan will probably be regionally televised.

The four night games listed are Air Force-SMU on Sept. 13, which opens the season schedule, Mississippi-Alabama on Oct. 4, Notre Dame-Georgia Tech on Nov. 1 and UCLA-USC on Nov. 22.

Notre Dame and USC were on TV three times last year but each will be seen only once because of NCAA rules. A team normally can be seen only twice but the "wild card" can up it to a third time. But the following year, it's prohibited to one appearance.

players, only one is a true amateur. He is the rising young star from Yugoslavia, Zeljko Franulovic, who put out the sixth-seeded Clark Graebner of New York, 6-3, 6-2. The seven others remaining in the tournament are either contract professionals or "players" who, under new United States Lawn Tennis Association rules, may compete for prize money.

Arthur Ashe, the U.S. Open champion seeded third, eliminated professional Ray Moore of South Africa, 6-4, 9-7 and will meet a Davis Cup squad teammate, Charlie Pasarell, Thursday night. Pasarell engineered a minor upset by downing the seventh-seeded Tom Okker of the Netherlands in a tense three-set struggle, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Andres Gimeno of Spain, the fourth seed, had little trouble with another professional, Earl Buchholz of St. Louis. Gimeno won Wednesday and 4,961 Tuesday.

Spain's Manuel Santana, eighth seeded, sent professional Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill. to the sidelines with a 6-3, 6-1 lacing, and will oppose another pro, Australia's Roy Emerson, Thursday night. Emerson won a sharp two-set battle from Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Texas, 7-5, 9-7. It was Richey who had shocked the field by whipping second-seeded Rod Laver in the opening round.

Tournament attendance has been disappointing, with an announced crowd of 4,638 Wednesday and 4,961 Tuesday.

$750, Medal Awarded To Castleton Resident

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (UPI) — The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission today officially announced awards for three upstate New York residents who risked injury to save the lives of others.

They were Raymond Martin, 52, of Ausable Forks; Keith A. Ellement, 12, of Buffalo and John P. Lill, 37, of Castleton. Martin and Ellement both received Bronze medals and $500. Lill received the medal and $750.

Martin was cited for holding Louis P. Robare, 67, of Hawkeye, N.Y., above water for five hours after the victim suffered a paralyzing stroke and fell into a lake on Oct. 31, 1967. Martin although he "could not swim and had a serious heart condition, went to the aid of Robare, who was four feet from the bank in wadeable water," the commission said.

Martin was not able to lift Robare onto a dock so he "sat down with his back against the dock and held Robare so that his head was above the water" until help came five hours later.

Young Ellement "saved an indeterminate number of children from being struck by a truck" on June 5, 1967.

About 40 children were crossing at an intersection when a tire on an approaching truck blew out. Ellement and a woman guard each herded half the children out of the way with Keith standing in "the path of the oncoming truck" to do so. The truck passed through the opening between the two groups "narrowly missing Keith."

Mariner 7 Goes Today For Its Probe of Moon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Mariner 7 was poised for launching toward Mars today to photograph the mysterious red planet's south polar regions. It is the second part of a two-spacecraft study which could tell whether Mars may support life.

Perched atop a powerful Atlas-Centaur rocket, the 901-pound craft was due for blast off at 4:35 p.m. EST.

After a 193-million-mile voyage, Mariner 7 is expected to pass 2,000 miles above the Martian south pole Aug. 5.

It will follow a twin craft, Mariner 6, launched Feb. 24 and now on course for a July 31 fly-by at the same altitude over the equatorial regions of Mars.

Officials said photos from both Mariners may show objects as small as 900 feet across. Similar pictures of Earth would pick out many dams and bridges.

Details on the pictures probably will not be clear enough to determine whether Martian life actually exists, the officials said, but information from the photos and spacecraft sensors may disclose whether temperatures and water supplies would permit it.

In another Cape Kennedy launching, the Air Force Wednesday sent a multiple-warhead Minuteman 3 missile on a test flight down the Atlantic overseas range. The weapon, being developed as the primary missile in America's land-based strategic striking force, appeared to be successful in the launch phase of flight.

Defense Summons Last Two

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The defense summons its last two witnesses in the Sirhan murder trial today following a blistering prosecution cross-examination of a psychiatrist who testified the young Arab was mentally incapable of premeditating the murder of Robert F. Kennedy.

Dr. Bernard Diamond, a university professor and internationally known psychiatrist, became angry and evasive when the prosecution hit at his professional diagnosis of Sirhan B. Sirhan.

Deputy Dist. Atty. David Fitts kept at Diamond until the bowed into long answers that even defense attorneys admitted hurt his credibility with the jury. Chief defense attorney Grant

Betros Bill Passes Assembly

POUGHKEEPSIE

The New York State Assembly Wednesday passed a bill sponsored by Assemblyman Emee S. Betros that will prohibit the sale of mailing lists by government and government employees when the lists are compiled from official books and records of government agencies.

Assemblyman Betros explained that during the past few years certain state agencies have been selling lists of names and addresses. This has led to large accumulations of unwanted mail on the part of many local residents.

Betros further pointed out that this has contributed to the increase in bulk mail which plays a large part in the Post-office's present problems.

The Betros bill now goes to the Senate for further action.

Rochester Board Plans Hearings On Future Plans

TOWN OF ROCHESTER

A special executive meeting of the Town of Rochester's Planning Board was held recently to plan public hearings on the proposed Development Plan, Zoning Ordinance, and Subdivision Regulation.

The goals and objectives of the Development Plan—to preserve the character and appearance of the Town, as outlined in the Plan, were also discussed.

These include allocating good and ample sites for future residential growth, preserving as much as possible the agricultural activities in the Town, providing a system of open spaces and park and recreational activities, protecting and enhancing the natural waterways and scenic areas, and improving the transportation and circulation system.

The need to create an orderly pattern of growth by encouraging residential developments in areas which are convenient to served by roads, utilities, schools and other facilities was stressed. And the need to discourage intensive residential development in scattered areas of difficult access, in order to avoid excessive costs for road improvements, road maintenance and school bus transportation, was also pointed out.

It was decided that a public hearing on the Development Plan would be held in the near future, with members of the Planning Board on hand to answer any questions which might arise. Public hearings on the Zoning Ordinance and Subdivision Regulations would be held at a later date.

John W. Scribano, Planning Board Chairman, and Sam Reavin, Zoning Commission Chairman, jointly announced that copies of the proposed Zoning Ordinance and Subdivision Regulations, as well as copies of the Development Plan, are available in the Town Clerk's Office in Accord, and those people who are interested may borrow these for one week.

Dear Abby

Has Crush on Pastor

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who had fallen in love with her pastor interested me because I, too, am in love with my pastor and always will be.

You advised that woman to change to a sister church and to keep her "love" to herself. A minister wrote in, disagreeing with your advice, and said he would advise the woman to confess her love for her minister, after which he would recommend that she see a psychiatrist who would help her to work her problems thru.

You were both wrong. In my case, neither changing churches nor seeing a psychiatrist could ever change my love.

Here is my recommendation: In public, be a good actress, and pretend only a platonic, friendly interest in him. At home, keep busy, busy, busy. Scrub the floor TWICE instead of once, if necessary; pursue interesting and time-consuming hobbies to keep the mind from dwelling on "him."

According to the "rules," I must not be in love with this remarkable man who is the most wonderful person I have ever known. But my heart does not know these "rules," and my love for him will endure as long as I live.

IN LOVE FOREVER DEAR "IN LOVE": Since you've already convinced yourself that you will be in love with this unattainable man "forever," you surely shall be. A "love" which is neither expressed nor reciprocated brings only frustration and pain. If you choose to punish yourself by looking, listening, and longing, with no hope of fulfillment, you are welcome to the pleasure — and pain. I suggest you scrub less and face reality.

DEAR ABBY: Every Christmas my husband gives me a cash gift (usually $25) and tells me to go out and buy myself something I'd really enjoy. How wonderful!

Then a week later he asks if he can "borrow" it back, and I never see it again. What advice have you for me?

NO PRESENT DEAR NO: The minute you get your hands on your "present," either spend it or bank it.

DEAR ABBY: You keep telling kids who write in that they should be happy to help with the housework. I think you are wrong.

My dad works all day to support his family. That's HIS job. My brother and I go to school all day and do two hours of homework at night. That's OUR job.

So why shouldn't my mother do the housework? That's HER job. It's not like she was sick, worked outside the house, or had little kids to take care of. She always has plenty of time for golf and bridge. Why not for housework?

TIRED OUT AT 16 DEAR TIRED OUT: If your mother plays golf and bridge INSTEAD of doing her housework, shame on her. But if you're exaggerating, shame on you!

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for answering "Wondering Mother's" letter the way you did.

I, too, was the child of parents who were married after mother became pregnant, and I agree with you. Don't lie.

The children almost always find out anyway. I did. I hope children who do learn the circumstances of their parents' marriage do as I have done. Not once in the 35 years that I have known have I said one word to my parents about it.

Now they know I know because we all celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary quietly, and I was nearly 50 at the time. All I said to them was, "Thank you for the wonderful home we were raised in and all the love you have given us."

This is ONE of the things I feel I have done right in my life.

NO NAME, PLEASE

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

TOO BIG? (Q.) Girls complain to you that they have small busts. Mine is too big. Is there any way to lose inches there? I feel terrible. I think a girl looks more feminine if she is smaller.—Overgrown in Omaha, Nebr.

(A) You will be doubly blessed if you will take this positive three-way approach: (1) Keep your weight down. (2) Dress correctly from skin out. (3) Watch your posture.

Except for controlling her over-all weight, there is little a girl or woman can do to decrease or increase the size of her breasts. If she gains weight they may be a little larger. If she loses they may be a little smaller.

If you will stand straight, shoulders back, all the time, your bust will be prettier and higher. If you wear a good bra, correctly fitted, and dresses or blouses designed not to hug you tightly, it will look soft and feminine.

DISTANT FLAME: (Q.) I've started college and drive 50 miles to school and back each day. Ninety miles from my home town lives a girl I was very fond of in high school. She is a freshman in another college now.

We didn't make a go of it in high school, but recently I had a date with her at her home and it was very promising. My parents, however, strongly oppose my dating her. I don't think it is the 90 miles; I think it is their fear that she will hurt me.

She is a fine girl with a good family. Her father is very friendly and helpful to me. How can I get my parents to see how good she is for me?—A Hopeful Commuter.

(A.) I believe your best bet is to invite your girl to visit in your home and let your parents get to know her now that she and you are grown up. Don't surprise them. Tell them what you have in mind and ask them to give her another chance.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

No Monday Blahs on CBS-TV

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The real wonder of CBS-TV's Monday night series lineup is not merely that it is an amazing ratings-getter, but that it is a fine collection of light, popular shows.

The first two series in the lineup, "Gunsmoke" and the Lucille Ball program, are, in fact, much more than just ordinary entertaining shows. Both have become genuine additions to the tradition and lore of the American entertainment business. The fact that these two landmarks of showbiz are presented back-to-back each week gives CBS-TV's Monday nights something rather remarkable just for openers.

At this point, I think it is fair to say that "Gunsmoke" is no longer just a fine Western, or merely the best series on network television each week, which it is. I think it is safe to say that "Gunsmoke" is a permanent American classic which gets better all the time. We tend to take a weekly video series pretty much for granted, as perhaps some lower form of entertainment—which is too often true.

Miss Ball's comedy series, meanwhile, is not so memorable for its individual shows as it is for the fact that we are privileged to see, each week, one of the great stars and talents that the nation has ever produced. The episodes are consistently enjoyable, of course, but mainly because of Miss Ball's comedy, energy and performing genius.

The three remaining shows on CBS-TV on Monday nights are "Mayberry R.F.D.," "Family Affair" and the Carol Burnett series. Personally, I have found "Mayberry R.F.D." the heir to the old Andy Griffith series, left not because of a personal dislike at all, but because his departure allows for more of a focus on the pleasant and frequently believable small-town characters who are often amusing with their minor problems.

Pre-Culbertson Systems Lacking

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The years 1927 through 1931 might well be called the pre-Culbertson era of contract. Except for Harold Vanderbilt, whose Vanderbilt Club constituted a good but complicated bidding system, most systems had nothing to recommend.

Strangely enough, their writings on the play of the cards were about as bad. They could all write about a simple squeeze or an elimination play but their general analysis was frightful. Of course, modern writers make mistakes also.

The bidding is typically early American, particularly when South goes on to seven no-trump because he has not shown his six-card diamond suit.

The pre-Culbertson writer does not discuss the five of clubs opening except to call it the normal lead against no-trump. But he does point out that South lost his grand slam because he let dummy's seven of clubs hold the first trick.

Of course, there are only 12 sure tricks available after that club lead but any declarer of today would have no trouble making the grand slam by the simple procedure of playing out the hand, provided he leaves diamonds to the last. He simply cashes four spades, three hearts, three clubs (the seven that won the first trick included), and winds up with the jack of clubs and king-queen of diamonds in dummy while he is holding the ace-10-nine of diamonds.

West has to hang on to the queen of clubs and must unguard his queen of diamonds. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Warn Against Impatience See Frustrating Path to Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite recurrent reports of private negotiations to end the Vietnam war, administration leaders foresee a long, frustrating path to peace and fear impatience can weaken the U.S. bargaining power.

This was the view of a State Department official on the eve of Secretary of State William P. Rogers' first appearance before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today for a report on the whole spectrum of foreign policy.

The official, speaking to a group of newsmen, said negotiations to end the war will take a considerable amount of time and warned that the side which is most impatient usually comes off second best.

This cautious view came at a time of rising optimism, given impetus earlier this week when President Nixon indicated in a Washington speech that private talks—which he favors as the best way to end the war—might already be under way.

But even while the cautious view was being put out at a high level, optimistic reports remained alive.

A responsible congressional official said he had been informed private talks were being held outside Paris where the formal negotiations have been going on—apparently fruitlessly—for three months.

This official said the private sessions were showing some promise of possible early developments.

The State Department official said he believed that North Vietnam had not yet accepted the principle of an independent South Vietnam. South Vietnamese independence is a declared objective of the United States in the war and in peace negotiations.

The settlement, he said, should also include firm agreements to end troop infiltration from North to South Vietnam over the jungle trails of neighboring Laos. He pictured security for Laos as essential to a durable settlement in Vietnam.

When asked why the United States did not end the war by invading and conquering North Vietnam the official said U.S. policy is to try to avoid escalation. Such action, he said, would not only broaden the conflict but could lead to a confrontation with Red China.

Asked then why the United States did not simply bring its troops home, he said that to abandon the struggle would mean a prompt takeover of South Vietnam and of Laos by North Vietnam. He declared it would also frighten other non-Communist countries in the Far East and raise questions about U.S. commitments elsewhere in the world, including West Berlin.

Snow and Sleet Frost Roads In West N.Y.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Old Man Winter seemed to be trying to get in his last punch early today and Wednesday as wet snow and sleet frosted highways throughout Western New York.

City streets in Rochester and Buffalo, and communities throughout the eight county area, were glazed with ice and driving was considered dangerous.

State Police said the New York Thruway from the Pennsylvania border to Buffalo was slippery and that several automobiles had slid off the road, but no personal injuries were reported.

A little over one inch of snow fell Wednesday and the temperatures were in the lower 20s during the night.

House Dems Seeking the Details

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats want President Nixon to disclose his recommendations for budget cutting and tax reform before committing themselves on extending the 10 percent income tax surcharge.

Nixon formally asked Congress Wednesday to extend the surcharge, worth about $10 billion in annual revenues, for a year beyond its June 30 expiration date. He said the government needs a strong budget surplus, along with a cautious monetary policy, to curb inflation.

Democratic reaction in the House, where all tax legislation must originate, was publicly guarded.

Speaker John W. McCormack told a news conference he supposes that, since Nixon asked for the extension, Congress will vote it.

The Ways and Means Committee, which writes tax legislation, simply said no hearings will be scheduled for the present. It is deep in public sessions on general tax reform.

Privately, however, Democratic sources said party members resent what they regard as pressure to extend an unpopular tax before they know to what extent and in what programs

Nixon intends to cut former President Johnson's last budget and whether the administration will support tax reforms in controversial fields.

Nixon said in his tax message he intends to cut Johnson's budget for the year beginning July 1 significantly under the January estimates. But he did not say how.

That budget called for about $195 billion in spending, but congressional analysts say some underestimates and subsequent cost increases raise it to about $197 billion.

The Democrats' best tactics in requiring Nixon to make the first move may be simply to delay hearings on the surtax. The legislation has a built-in deadline—June 30.

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and John J. Williams of Delaware, senior Republican on the Finance Committee, have urged spending cuts be tied to any surtax extension.

The business community expected and accepted the surtax proposal with little excitement.

Another New York investment analyst, Monte Gordon of Bache & Co., commented: "Extension of the surcharge has been anticipated and discounted. I don't think there will be any reaction by the market."

Justice Allison B. Humphreys Jr. wrote the opinion in which the court noted a federal ruling to the effect that for a person to be denied due process by ineffective representation by counsel it "must be such as to make the trial a farce, sham, or mockery of justice."

Humphreys noted the ruling has been applied to a number of situations arising out of criminal cases, including situations where a defendant entered a plea of guilty on the advice or urging of his lawyer.

The court's ruling came Wednesday in the case of Robert E. Richmond, who had petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus on grounds his pleas of guilt in two burglary cases were induced by "improper advice" from privately retained counsel.

However, executive Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert K. Dwyer of Memphis said Ray signed a written waiver "stating his plea of guilty was free, voluntary and without duress."

Dwyer hailed the Supreme Court decision as "assuring more than ever that Ray's conviction will stand."

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—The Tennessee Supreme Court has dealt what could be a fatal blow to the legal grounds on which James Earl Ray was reported to be basing his bid for a new trial.

The high tribunal ruled Wednesday a convicted criminal cannot invalidate a prison sentence by alleging he pleaded guilty on the advice of his lawyer. A top legal source said the ruling could "fit the James Earl Ray case like a glove."

But the admitted slayer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., apparently is planning to attack his 99-year sentence nonetheless, A Memphis attorney identified as Richard J. Ryan tried to visit Ray Wednesday, but was turned away by Tennessee State Prison authorities who said he had not been officially retained by Ray.

A prisoner who was a cell neighbor of Ray's in the prison said on his release Wednesday Ray told him "he didn't expect to be in prison very long."

James Powers said Ray indicated he expected to be returned to the Memphis Jail soon to await new legal proceedings.

Ray's brother, Jerry, had been quoted in the Nashville Tennessean as saying Ray would seek a new trial on grounds he was "pressured" into pleading guilty to King's murder by defense attorney Percy Foreman.

The court's ruling came Wednesday in the case of Robert E. Richmond, who had petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus on grounds his pleas of guilt in two burglary cases were induced by "improper advice" from privately retained counsel.

However, executive Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert K. Dwyer of Memphis said Ray signed a written waiver "stating his plea of guilty was free, voluntary and without duress."

Dwyer hailed the Supreme Court decision as "assuring more than ever that Ray's conviction will stand."
